Is this NQ's greatest cold room?

BIGGER, COLDER, BETTER

Leighton Smith

A contender for Australia's largest pub, the $50m Twin City Hotel at the former-Sunland Plaza site has opened up what could be the biggest cold room in NQ, as part of the second stage of the project.

Star Hotels Group unveiled the hotel's next phase - Star Liquor's largest warehouse, offering a $15k whiskey - and next door, a gaming room with a bar, lounge, 45 brand new poker machines, Keno, and TAB. Twin City Hotel manager Chris McNeill said the new gaming room featured the newest technologies and the latest games, with a video wall for the TAB, and a cafe, which was expected to open before Australia Day.

Missing 22-year-old Elliot Spinaze has been found dead.

Missing man, 22, found dead

Daneka Hill

A body of a Burdekin man who went missing in the early hours of December 30 has been found after an intensive search effort.

Elliot Spinaze, 22, was last seen on Graham St around 3am before leaving in his grey Hyundai.

The car was later found parked near the Burdekin Bridge, and a police search of the river began involving helicopters.

Mr Spinaze's body was found the next day in non-suspicious circumstances.

Police will prepare a report for the coroner.

In the aftermath, a GoFundMe has been set up for Mr Spinaze's mother and sister to help cover the funeral costs.

Alva resident Talika Pegoraro organised the GoFundMe and said she was raising money with the permission of Elliot Spinaze's grieving family.

"Elliot was such a beautiful soul, who lit up every life he touched," Ms Pegoraro said.

"Unfortunately he lost his battle against the black dog for the last time and was found on the very last evening of 2023."

So far more than $13,000 has been raised through the GoFundMe, the majority comes from people who knew Mr Spinaze.

The 22-year-old grew up in the Burdekin and was a former Ayr State High School student.

If you or anyone you know needs help phone Lifeline on 131 114.

Helping hand keeping elderly living at home

Daniel Shirkie

At 94-years-old, most would forgive James Meads for not being in a hurry to pick up the broom and get to sweeping the house he built with his wife almost 40-years-ago.

Now, thanks to the staff at the Townsville Hospital and Health Services' Older Persons' Community Services Home Care team, the former sawmill worker is embracing a more relaxed pace of life.

Each fortnight, program staff come to Mr Meads' home to clean, and touch base with the nonagenarian, something that he couldn't be more appreciative of.

"I'm only 94 but having the team pop in and dean is very helpful because I do find the cleaning quite hard these days," Mr Meads said.

"The team are really lovely and while they are busy clean-

... a lot of our clients need some extra help because they are getting older which is where the team can help with tasks like vacuuming, washing, mopping

ing on their visits, it's nice to have someone visit for a chat.

"The team do such a good job and even clean my outside sitting area which I appreciate because this is where I spend a lot of time sitting as the breeze comes through the louvres."

Mr Meads said he was also appreciative that the team's efforts kept his two sons free to take care of their own busy lives.

Townsville Hospital and Health Service Older Persons Community Services manager Susan Trench said the program targeted the small, but vital tasks that some elderly people need taken care of in order to otherwise live independently.

"Much like James, a lot of our clients need some extra help because they are getting older which is where the team can help with tasks like vacuuming, washing, mopping or making beds which are all small things that allow older people to stay in their homes," Ms Trench said.

"An important part of the service is working in partnership and beginning our relationship with each client by discussing what they need help with and what they don't."

"It's essential we don't tell our clients what they need and discuss what they do need because this is an important part of ensuring our older community members keep their independence and pride."

"We assist about 500 members of our community who are all so grateful for some extra support around the home."

The program assists people over 65, and people over 55 who are in the First Nations or Indigenous community, and is also proving a good way to prevent hospital stays and emergency call-outs by keeping elderly residents safe.

"Practically, having a neat and tidy home without trip or falls hazards in a population who might not be as steady on their feet is a good thing because we know if people aren't falling and hurting themselves, they have a better quality of life," she said.

"In healthcare circles, we call this a 'wellness and enablement' approach to care that keeps people well, out of hospital and in their homes."

"And as a team, we have good strong reputation with our consumers of doing just this because we have a team of 20 permanent and casual staff which makes us a reliable service for our community."

Anyone looking to secure the services of or help in the program can phone 4433 9500.

BOM investigating missing Towers weather data

Daneka Hill

The Bureau of Meteorology weather station in Charters Towers has been offline since November 30, and residents are making do with their own backyard rain gauges and Facebook to track the weather.

The BOM said it was aware the weather station wasn't recording observations online, and it would investigate the matter "as a matter of priority".

A BOM spokesman said weather forecasts and warnings were not impacted by this issue.

"The Bureau's weather forecasts and weather warning service has been designed so that it is resilient and not dependent on any one piece of equipment," he said. "Rain gauges form only one part of the Bureau's observing network."

The BOM hasn't discovered what exactly has caused the lapse, but the organisation was advertising in early December for a weather observer to work at the Charters Towers Airport manual weather station.

The job advertisement mentioned a future upgrade, transforming the manual weather station into an automatic one.

"This role is crucial to maintaining accurate weather observations until the automatic weather station is installed and ensuring the integrity of the climate record for Charters Towers," the job advertisement read.

It's estimated the transition from manual to automatic would take two years. A weather observer was required to make 15-minute weather observations at 9am and 3pm every day, rain, hail or shine.

The job includes reading instruments at the airport weather station that record the air temperature, wet bulb temperature, maximum and minimum temperature, atmospheric pressure and rainfall.

Weather observers were required to take twice-daily observations 365 days a year, and could earn about $850 a month.

Aside from the Charters Towers airport, the next closest weather stations were Townsville - Fanning River (Defence), Richmond and Collinsville.

Alleged vigilantes accused of making an illegal citizen's arrest by chasing down, bashing and tying up three boys with makeshift handcuffs after the teens trespassed on private property have been charged.

Detectives from the Tablelands Child Protection and Investigation Unit have charged two men following an incident in Mareeba on December 23, 2023.

lands town following reports that three boys aged between 12 and 14 had been trespassing on a nearby property.

When officers arrived, two men were at the scene.

Police allege the men, both from Bibbohra, chased the boys and assaulted them before tying them up with makeshift handcuffs.

Officers released the boys from the restraints and safely escorted them home.

Later, following an investigation by the Tablelands Child Protection and Investigation Unit detectives laid a series of charges.

Police have confirmed some of the concerning claims made in a viral TikTok video.

It's understood police would allege ratchet straps were used to bind the hands of the three boys.

Racial tensions have run high in Mareeba since the police shooting of Indigenous man Aubrey Donahue earlier this year.

In December the situation reached boiling point when an angry mob took to the street and threw rocks at police vehicles in unrest stemming from unresolved tensions that have simmered since the death on March 31, 2023.

A 36-year-old Bibbohra man was charged with three counts each of common assault and deprivation of liberty.

He was refused police bail and is due to appear in the Mareeba Magistrates Court on January 22.

Twitter firm at risk over bill claim

Ben Butler

A key Twitter company in Singapore may be shut down by a court for failing to pay about $76,200 in Australian internet bills after Elon Musk took control.

Aussie ISP Vocus claims to be owed the money for wholesale internet transit services it provided to Twitter Asia Pacific Pte Ltd, which is registered in Singapore, since September 2022.

Mr Musk took over Twitter in October 2022 and Vocus claims Twitter Asia Pacific stopped paying its bills the same month.

Before Mr Musk took over Twitter and renamed it X, Twitter Asia Pacific sold ads on the social media network throughout the region, including in Australia.

It is unclear what purpose the company now serves within the X group, and early last year it was reported that workers at the Singapore office were temporarily shut out after Twitter failed to pay the rent on time.

Plans to expand the Singapore office were also canned after Mr Musk took control of the company.

In documents filed with the Victorian Supreme Court, Vocus says it served a statutory demand for the $76,200 it claims to be owed at Twitter Asia Pacific's registered address in Melbourne on November 16, but the company still didn't pay up.

On December 21, Vocus asked the court to declare Twitter Asia Pacific insolvent and wind it up.

Australian law allows courts to declare overseas companies insolvent and order them to be wound up as long as they are first given 21 days to pay their bills by being served with a statutory demand at their registered office.

Court documents show Vocus billed Twitter Asia Pacific US$8000 (about $11,000) a month for IP transit from the start of September 2022 to the end of May last year, plus US$533 ($787) for two days in June last year for a total of US$48,533.

Vocus is one of Australia's three biggest ISPs and owns a high-speed undersea cable linking Perth to Singapore.

Massive pub rolls out bottle-o and gaming

Leighton Smith

For those looking to stock up the liquor cabinet after a big New Year's, or are keen for a flutter, the Twin City Hotel's latest section to open has something for you.

A contender for Australia's largest pub, the $50m Twin City Hotel at the former-Sunland Plaza site launched its first stage in November, a pop-up burger shop at 12 Hervey Range Rd called The Garage.

Just four days before Christmas, the Star Hotels Group unveiled the hotel's next phase - Star Liquor's largest warehouse, and next door, a gaming room with a bar, lounge, 45 brand new poker machines, Keno, and TAB.

Twin City Hotel manager Chris McNeill said the new gaming room featured the newest technologies and the latest games, with a video wall for the TAB, and a cafe, which was expected to open before Australia Day.

He said they had received a good response from locals who were excited to be stepping back inside the former-Sunland Plaza after being closed for seven years.

"It feels good (to open). It was a long time coming just to get this little part open ... and its just going to start rolling on from here," Mr McNeill said.

"Everything's here, ready to go for the local punters."

It was the refrigeration tradespeople who built the warehouse's massive cold room who told him that it was the largest that they had built in North Queensland.

"Space was not an issue. It was 'when do we stop' with the size of the cold room and the floor plans," he said.

"The next couple of stages (to open are) the real exciting ones, which we can't talk too much about now but over the next few months, it'll really start to unravel and there'll be some cool things to talk about."

Star Liquor warehouse retail manager Guy Gibson said they were offering a "vast range" of "unique and different" alcoholic products including a variety of wines and high end spirits.

One of the centrepieces was a highly-prized $15,000 bottle of 25-year-old Hakushu Japanese single malt whisky, which has a Mackay resident journeying north to Townsville to procure.

Expected to be completed in five to eight months, the Twin City Hotel will employ 250 staff to operate multiple bars, a coffee shop, lounge bar, gaming room, three kitchens, and 1200sq m large-format function and event space.

Lifesavers in demand

North Queensland's Surf Lifesavers have revealed the sky-high demand for their services across the holiday period, saving four lives and intervening in over 2,500 other incidents between December 23, 2023 and January 1, 2024.

The week long period represents one of the busiest times of year on Queensland's beaches, with more than 1.5 million beachgoers hitting the water across the state.

Across that period, 77,512 people visited North Queensland's beaches alone and a total of 2527 preventive actions were undertaken by lifeguards in the region.

Surf Lifesavers in North Queensland utilised first aid in a further 87 incidents across the end of the year time period.

Monster payday for our Mary's prince, 18

Adella Beaini

Prince Christian, Queen Margrethe and Prince Frederik.

Crown Princess Mary's eldest son Christian, next in line to the Danish throne, is set to receive a royal allowance running into millions of dollars after his grandmother's abdication.

Citing ill health, Queen Margrethe announced on New Year's Eve that she would step aside, allowing Crown Prince Frederik and his Aussie-born wife Mary to be the new King and Queen from January 14.

The move means Frederik and Mary's son Prince Christian is tipped to finally receive a huge royal salary drawn from Denmark's state budget.

Christian was entitled to the allowance when he turned 18 last October, but the royal house said he wouldn't take the money until completing his education or if the line of succession changed, Sky News reports. It is expected Christian will pocket millions of Danish krone tax-free each year.

Queen Margrethe, currently receives about $21m annually to support living and staff costs.

Christian is in his last year of school at Ordrup Gymnasium, a public school in Copenhagen.

The changes are not expected to affect Christian's siblings, Princess Isabella, 16, and twins Prince Vincent and Princess Josephine, 12.

Mooving support for family

Community rallies to help farmers find and feed hundreds of cattle after floods

Kate Stephenson

Faced with the devastating reality of losing hundreds of cattle down the Barron River, two Cairns farmers were met with huge generosity from the Far North community.

The community has rallied behind Freshwater cattle farmers Charlotte and Heath Rose, whose herd of about 400 were seen floating down the Barron River during the Far North floods, with friends and strangers donating their time, labour, food and resources to help the couple recover from the exhausting ordeal.

Savannah Hay owner and operator Tom Osborne said he jumped at the chance to help the pair.

"It's been good that I can help in some little way, I can't imagine how devastating it would be; not just financially but also the wellbeing of the cattle," Mr Osborne said.

Savannah Hay alongside Dunmore Hay and Grain heavily discounted close to a hundred bales to feed isolated cattle which were then paid for by the community.

"It's not even just the local community, it's also been people out of our area donating - people from Mackay and those places too," Mr Osborne added.

Malanda cattle farmer Trevor, who asked to keep his last name private, co-ordinated the donation.

"I played a very insignificant role, the two farmers they were tired, fatigued and worn out obviously dealing with something they haven't had to before so I just said 'lets try and feed these animals and take that little bit of stress off of them'," he said.

Trevor said it was a true case of Australian mateship, with truck drivers volunteering to pick up hay in Dimbulah and Atherton, one man offering his cattle dogs to aid in the round up efforts, another building a 700m fence in one day - all to ease the pressure on the Rose family.

"The community efforts to me were just so overwhelming," Trevor said.

He and his family also organised a food drive for affected families in nearby Caravonica, where they met even more volunteers.

"There was a lovely lady that I met called Deszree," he said.

"She was just giving whatever she had, she was telling me she doesn't really eat a lot of meat because of the cost but she was going out and buying meat on her credit card to make sandwiches and snags to donate. The one good thing that came out of this is I have made lifelong friends."

Friends of the family say roughly 300 cows were returned to the family, while some remain wandering around town and others were lost in the floods.

"It took a big toll on these two farmers as they were monitoring social media 24/7 because they were so concerned about people getting hurt or killed," Trevor said.

McKinlay grazer Heather Moore captured this photograph of a storm full of lightning near Julia Creek.

'Everyone is waiting for rain'

Richmond's mayor hopes "something might happen" for more rain in rural North Queensland, considering each day this week is predicted to have possible storms.

John Wharton said his shire already had a strong start to the wet season with enough rain for the Flinders River to run, but that hot conditions in the last week had impacted growing grass.

"It's been hot all right, no doubt about that, and that's had an effect on the grass that did grow from the earlier rain," Mr Wharton said.

"It's not too bad, there's enough feed for the cattle that are left and everything, so I think everyone is waiting around now, no one's panicking, and no one is going to shift any cattle this time of the year at this stage now."

"It could be only 24 hours now for good breaking rain, so we'll just stick around for a while.

"Look, honestly, a couple of inches every night for about four, five days would be lovely, but we can't predict it."

Graziers were anticipating better rainfall in February which was typically the best month for rainfall, Mr Wharton said.

Semi-retired Prairie grazer Bill Bode, whose family runs The Plains, said there had been plenty of rain in his area, but Hughenden, which was 40km west, "has been lacking a bit".

Man tries to miss cow, dies

A man has been killed in a single-vehicle accident near Charters Towers on Tuesday night.

Queensland Police say the accident happened on the Gregory Development Rd at Seventy Mile about 10.30 on Tuesday night.

Police say the driver left the road after attempting to avoid hitting a cow.

The driver of the 2000 Toyota wagon, a 29-year-old Lancefield man, died at the scene. Two passengers, a 28-year-old man and a 24-year-old woman, survived.

The Forensic Crash Unit is investigating.

Tiny Aussie fossil find

Microscopic fossils found in the Northern Territory contain the oldest photosynthetic structures ever discovered, shedding light on the origins of photosynthesis. University of Liege researchers in Belgium found structures known as thylakoids, which are also found inside plant cells and some modern cyanobacteria, in the 1.75 billion-year-old tiny fossils called Navifusa majensis.

The discovery of thylakoids in a specimen of this age suggests that photosynthesis may have evolved before 1.75 billion years ago.

Huge seals fussy eaters

As one of the top predators roaming Antarctica, the sizeable southern elephant seal has its fair selection of the menu. But it turns out they don't just want to eat anything and everything.

According to new research led by UNSW Sydney, male southern elephant seals have their own favourite foods, and they like to stick with them. In other words, they're very fussy eaters. "So, they are extremely picky eaters, each with their own unique favourite foods they go after, whether it be fish squid species, crustaceans or octopus," says lead author Andrea Cornack.

Sweet boost to mills

Wilmar gives 34 apprentices a crash course kickstarter

Daniel Shirkie

North Queensland's workforce has been bolstered over the holiday period with 34 new apprentices picking up tools and starting a trade with sugar giant Wilmar.

The apprentices completed a two-week safe start course before being deployed across Wilmar's eight Queensland mills, with sixteen of the young workers starting their careers in the prosperous Burdekin region.

Wilmar Sugar's training superintendent Daniel Shipard said the crash course gave the young guns a chance to come to grips with what a working day would be like, and how to get home safely.

Work Coordinator Brett Wilshire with apprentice Hendrikus Voigt.

"It's about getting them to understand Wilmar's safety requirements and procedures, as well as giving them the basic skillset they require to enter their relevant workshops," Mr Shipard said.

the sixteen apprentices picking up tools in the Burdekin, starting at Pioneer Mill as a second-year electrical apprentice after making the switch to Wilmar in order to learn from experienced tradespeople.

I'm excited to be working with the mill's state of the art equipment, particularly the big switchrooms in the factory," Hugh said.

Down the coast, Proserpine Mill's newest worker Jayme Farr was thrilled to start her electrical apprentice career in her hometown.

"My family has been living in Proserpine since my father was 16 years old and, for over three generations now, we've been breeding horses on our family farm," Jayme said.

"Being able to do my apprenticeship at Proserpine Mill means that I can be home every afternoon to spend time with my family."

Mr Shipard said the influx of new workers would be a boon to Wilmar's operations, and help them stay staffed up across a number of key work disciplines including electrical, fitting and turning, boilermaking and diesel fitting.

"They're going to be a huge asset to our organisation and we can't wait to see them grow over the next four years of their apprenticeship," Mr Shipard said.

Fitting and turning apprentice Hendrikus Voigt said the size of the machinery and operations at Wilmar's mills had "blown his mind".

"I'm looking forward to learning more skills in the workshop and getting my hands on the big lathes. It just blows my mind how big they are and I can't wait to get to work on them," he said.

CHAPTER EXTRACT

DICKIE AND MY FAMOUS MYSTERY LODGER

Aussie TV legend LIZ HAYES gives an open account of the ups and downs of celebrity encounters in an edited extract from her new memoir I'm Liz Hayes

I shared my Sydney apartment for a time with Richard Wilkins. Richard was working at Nine, hosting MTV. We'd found ourselves in a limousine together on the way to a charity event. I didn't know much about Richard, but we had a good hour to talk before reaching our destination.

He'd told me he had parted from Lynette, his wife at the time, and that he was looking for a new place to stay. If he got stuck, I said, I would be happy to help him out. I had a spare bedroom and bathroom.

When Richard moved in it was the beginning of a lifelong friendship, and despite some media speculation it was a relationship that never involved romance.

Richard came with his own style and personality. After he arrived, paintings went up on the wall, pot plants found a place in the corner and his violin took centre stage. He was warm and witty and exceedingly generous, as were his rather impressive home-making skills.

And to my delight, he filled his bathroom with all manner of creative hair concoctions. My blonde mane, and his, had never looked so magnificent. We had a fabulous and very funny time.

Richard was ambitious and extraordinarily hard-working. His favourite and most challenging job, though, was as a father. His children were always his priority. They were a joyful addition to our apartment, along with my brother Phillip, his mates and the many family members and friends who visited.

Our personal lives kept us both entertained. I think my private world kept Richard mostly amused and his just kept me eternally intrigued. We maintained separate telephone lines to make things easy.

There was one moment, though, when we were both flummoxed.

An international star had landed in Sydney and arrived at our apartment to stay with me. I hadn't told Richard, because he was supposed to be away for a few weeks and my friendly star was keen to keep his stay confidential. Ideal timing, I'd thought, as I made plans while checking the calendar.

My friend Julie, the only other person who knew of the impending celebrity visit, collected our man from the airport. The eagle has landed, she reported in a messenger as I sat on the Today set quizzing federal shadow treasurer Peter Reith about the cost of milk.

All was in place, I thought, for a few days getting to know my guest away from the glare of paparazzi. While I continued to work in the mornings, he would look around the city, in disguise.

And for a while it worked well. But when Richard suddenly turned up, the secret went south.

Early in the morning I received two telephone messages. The first from Richard, who'd changed his plans and come home early, calling from the phone in his bedroom: "There's someone in your room and I don't know who it is!"

And at about the same time, from the now-startled international star, whispering urgently into my phone and locked in my bedroom: "Someone has just come into the apartment!"

I phoned them both back in a commercial break. ME TO RICHARD: What are you doing back? RICHARD TO ME: Who's in there?

ME: I can't tell you. RICHARD: What? Why not? ME: It's someone who is not ready for guests.

RICHARD: What?

ME: Well, he doesn't want anyone to know he's here.

RICHARD: Who?

ME TO INTERNATIONAL STAR: His name is Richard, he's my flatmate.

INTERNATIONAL STAR: What?

ME: I'm sorry, he wasn't supposed to be back so soon.

INTERNATIONAL STAR: I can't stay in your room all day. ME: I think you'll like Richard.

ME TO RICHARD: Look, I've

told him not to worry, that you're my flatmate, and maybe he'll come out and say hello.

RICHARD: Well, I'm here for a while.

ME: How long?

RICHARD: I don't know, a few hours.

ME TO INTERNATIONAL STAR: Richard is a really nice guy.

ME TO RICHARD: I've told him you're a nice bloke.

It could well have been a scene from a television

“An international star had landed in Sydney and arrived at our apartment to stay with me. I hadn't told Richard, because he was supposed to be away for a few weeks and my friendly star was keen to keep his stay confidential. Ideal timing, I'd thought comedy. And totally out of my hands.

The outcome didn't surprise me. The international star slowly emerged into the lounge room, and Richard was, as he always is, an understanding and friendly face.

He stayed for a couple of days then set out again, and the international star settled in for a few more days of antipodean life.

The friendship between Richard and the star far outlasted that between the star and me.

So many stories. So many memories. All of them good. And the warm friendship Richard and I had back then continues today. We both work hard and wonder about the future. We still marvel at our long careers in this business, careers that in the beginning we hadn't dared believe possible.

We live in a kaleidoscopic world, and adding to its coat of many colours are celebrities. Those who, for whatever reason, find themselves at the centre of attention. Some seem to like the spotlight, others don't.

During my many years of holding a 60 Minutes microphone, I would find myself talking to a vast number of famous people.

And the stars of Hollywood were, for me, the most challenging to interview. I felt many celluloid stars viewed the media with a level of disdain – unless, of course, they were in control of what was being reported.

I understand why. Anyone who has been subjected to unwanted and relentless publicity gets it. Not all publicity is good publicity, even if that is occasionally the view. Celebrities become fodder, headline and column-fillers for gossip columnists. My own experiences had taught me that lesson beyond doubt.

It's a vicious cycle. It can

start when the media is courted to help build a celebrity's brand. But it's often when the famous come to sell their wares, that the horror begins.

They're forced to chat to the very people they most fear and distrust: journalists.

And almost inevitably, somewhere along the line, it turns into a battle.

A celebrity who did seem to be in a sorry state, or at least in need of a group hug, was Hugh Grant. Just weeks into my job at 60 Minutes, I was sent to London to interview the English actor.

Grant arrived for the interview still recovering from stinging headlines, having been caught in a vice operation with a prostitute and hauled into a Los Angeles police station. It was an inglorious time for Grant, and I felt incredibly sorry that he had had to endure such a worldwide tabloid berating for this sexual encounter.

I recall he arrived for the interview at our London hotel at the allotted time without any fuss. I decided to tackle the elephant in the room and asked the obligatory question about his indiscretion, and he answered it with his newfound discretion. He batted the business away with a well-rehearsed reply that I figure came from dealing with the media storm in America, where he'd first had to stomp up and face the music.

There was little joy on this subject for either of us.

I shifted to asking him about his acting, and whether he was really just playing himself. In hindsight it was also an unkind question, but he took it on the chin. He was polite and seemingly reserved but it seemed his zing had zagged and he was just a bloke who happened to be an actor, caught in the public glare. It's probably one of the few times he didn't employ his trademark sarcasm.

Grant was one of many who got caught up in the nasty web of tabloid stories. And after a number of years looking many like him in the eye, I have to admit to some feelings of sympathy.

I watch Grant these days and he seems to have recovered his zing. He remains a very matter-of-fact and accomplished actor who has kept his sense of humour.

Drugs were a bit of a taboo subject when I raised the topic with a certain Hollywood star: Robert Downey Jr.

At the time of our interview in 2005 he had not long come out of a difficult era with substances. His drug-taking had been well publicised and he'd recently given a heartfelt and open interview to Oprah Winfrey about it.

I was in London to interview him about a musical album he'd put out that would end up receiving mixed reviews.

We had arrived early and set up a number of cameras in a pretty swish five-star Regent hotel suite. We had grand plans. We'd interview Downey Jr first, then get him to bang out a tune on a piano that we had ready not too far away. All of this, of course, was dependent on whether Downey Jr felt like it on the day.

His American public relations person arrived to check the room and make sure that all was good for her client. Downey Jr was running late, and when he did arrive he seemed a little slow out of the blocks. He gave us a short acknowledgment then asked for a bowl of porridge before disappearing into another room for hair and make-up.

When he took his seat for the interview, I instinctively sensed he wasn't really in the mood. Then when we started he simply stared at Grant, our sound man, who was positioned at his side.

It was odd, given I was asking the questions. I might have been wrong, but I wondered whether, by refusing to look at me, he was perhaps hoping to unsettle me. Either way, I was of the opinion that he'd woken up that morning wishing he could just go back to sleep.

I got some arbitrary answers from him to my early questions.

But when I raised his rough ride through those earlier years on drugs, he did look at me. And was apparently unimpressed.

"Liz," fired his PR person.

I continued, mentioning that I understood Mel Gibson had been a major support.

"This is f--ked!" said Downey Jr, now glaring at me. And with that he stood up and walked into the other room.

I didn't think this was a subject off limits. "Sorry, Robert did a whole program with Oprah Winfrey about this," I said, looking at his PR person.

Her reply was that "Oprah was different."

And I couldn't argue with that, but I could argue that Downey Jr had talked at length about drugs and not appeared to be upset by it. Until now.

A huddle of sorts occurred in the other room where Downey Jr was holed up. There was a difficulty, it seemed.

I'm guessing that the concern was it that didn't look good for Downey Jr to be seen walking out of an interview.

His PR person returned and advised us Robert would be prepared to sit down and say goodbye nicely. I told her, without the niceties, that there was no point.

It was an unfortunate end to an interview that I would have preferred to have gone well.

Downey Jr had seemed like an open and honest talker, and a great voice on how to beat those terrible demons.

This is an edited extract from I'm Liz Hayes, by Liz Hayes, published by HarperCollins and available now.

Albanese dodges cover-up question

Ellen Ransley,
Jack Quail and
Madeleine Achenza

Prime Minister Anthony Albanese has refused to say whether he believes the Morrison government tried to "cover up" Howard-era documents about Australia's involvement in the Iraq war.

It comes after the revelation on New Year's Day that 78 documents were missing from a now declassified file created in 2003, which reveal then-prime minister John Howard's decision-making process before Australia entered the Iraq war. The documents suggest Mr

Howard had decided to join the US-led invasion before taking the matter to cabinet.

Speaking at a press conference on Wednesday, Mr Albanese (inset) was asked if he was concerned about a "cover up" in regards to the missing documents.

"Well, that's why we have asked Dennis Richardson to do the review," he responded.

"I'm not aware of the circumstances. Obviously, I wasn't a member of the cabinet in 2003."

He went on to add there was "no public servant in Australia who is more respected" than Mr Richardson, the former defence department secretary.

Mr Richardson is due to report the results of his review in the next two weeks.

The Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet had revealed just hours before the 2003 papers were made public that the missing documents were not lost, but had not been handed over by the Morrison government to the archives, "oversights" it said was "likely as a result of Covid-19 disruptions at the time".

The department said the missing documents had been located on December 19 and had been since transferred to the archives.

Mr Albanese said on Wednesday that he expected all the missing documents to be released by the National Archives, save for anything that could compromise national security.

Dozen Aussies escape Japanese plane crash

Jet passengers safe after crash with smaller aircraft that killed five

AFP

Twelve Australians were on board the Japan Airlines passenger jet that collided with a Japan Coast Guard plane at Tokyo's Haneda Airport, according to Emergency Management Minister Murray Watt.

"I know this time of year, Japan is a pretty popular tourist destination for Australians. My understanding is that with the plane crash, there were about 12 Australian passengers on those planes, but none have been injured," Mr Watt told Sky News.

All 379 passengers and crew on board the passenger plane which burst into flames were safely evacuated, Japanese transport minister Tetsuo Saito told reporters.

But five of the six crew members from the smaller plane – bound for central Japan after Monday's huge earthquake – died, he said.

The captain escaped and survived but was injured, he said, cautioning that "we're not at the stage to explain the cause" of the accident.

Television and unverified footage shared on social media showed the Japan Airlines (JAL) airliner moving along the runway before a large eruption of orange flames and black smoke burst from beneath and behind it.

Video posted to social media platform X showed people sliding down an inflatable emergency slide from the side of the passenger plane while flames shot out from the rear of the aircraft.

All 367 passengers plus 12 crew on-board were swiftly taken off the plane before dozens of fire engines with flashing blue lights sprayed the fuselage.

They however failed to put out the flames coming out of windows near the wings and the blaze soon engulfed the entire aircraft.

The plane, reportedly an Airbus 350, had arrived from New Chitose Airport serving Sapporo on the northern island of Hokkaido. Those on board included eight children.

"Smoke began to fill the plane, and I thought, 'this could be really bad', an adult male passenger told reporters.

"An announcement said doors in the back and middle could not be opened. So everyone disembarked from the front," he said.

A female passenger said it had been dark on-board as the fire intensified after landing.

"It was getting hot inside the plane, and I thought, to be honest, I would not survive," she said in comments shown on broadcaster NHK.

The coast guard plane had been preparing to fly to Ishikawa prefecture to deliver supplies after the devastating New Year's Day earthquake which killed at least 48 people.

Prime Minister Fumio Kishida praised the deceased crew members on their way to help the victims of the quake.

"These were employees who had a high sense of mission and responsibility for the affected areas. It's very regrettable," he told reporters at the airport.

"I express my respect and gratitude to their sense of mission," he said.

Haneda suspended domestic flights in the wake of the fire on the runway, according to its website, but most international takeoffs and landings were still operating.

There was also burning debris on the runway at Haneda, one of the world's busiest airports.

A transport ministry official said investigations into the incident were ongoing, including exchanges between the flights and air traffic control.

Japan has not suffered a serious commercial aviation accident in decades.

Its worst ever accident was in 1985, when a JAL jumbo jet flying from Tokyo to Osaka crashed in central Gunma region, killing 520 passengers and crew.

That disaster was one of the world's deadliest plane crashes involving a single flight.

Response to public 'love letter' goes viral

Jordan McCarthy

A public declaration of love has led to a response from an Australian deputy mayor that has gone viral, with his post gathering more than 5000 likes in just a few days.

Gladstone Regional Council Deputy Mayor Kahn Goodluck shared an image of a road sign that had "I love you Hannah" spray-painted across it in neon pink paint while also adding that the lovelorn artist's message had been "plastered all over town" at 20 or more other locations.

Mr Goodluck said he was sure Hannahs everywhere were appreciative of the attention, but the cost of fixing the signs would land on taxpayers.

"I'm sure everyone travelling around BITS over the last few days has noticed that someone out there really, REALLY loves Hannah," he wrote.

"While this very public display of affection has no doubt left many Hannahs feeling the love, it will cost ratepayers money for crews to head out and clean all this up.

"Please don't use public roads, road signs and car parks as your personal love letters."

Mr Goodluck did have alternative ideas for the local Romeo, however.

"You can try: Writing 'I love you Hannah' on a nice hand made card, buying some chocolates or a piece of jewellery or a surprise picnic in the park," he said.

If caught, the artist could face a fine as much as $3096.

We understand clucks

Seven out of 10 humans can correctly tell if a chicken is happy or not based on their clucks, according to Australian researchers.

A University of Queensland team recruited nearly 200 people and played them recordings of different chicken calls – some where they were expecting a reward and some from other contexts.

The researchers say 69 per cent of participants correctly guessed whether a chicken was excited about a potential reward, and previous experience didn't appear to change how accurate their guesses were.

The researchers say this provides evidence that we may be able to innately perceive the emotions of chickens, which could help us make better choices about their welfare.

Twisted takes on iconic Mickey

AFP

Barely 24 hours after Disney's initial copyright on Mickey Mouse expired, two new indie horror films starring the character have been announced.

Steamboat Willie, the first Disney movie to feature Mickey, entered the public domain under US law on Monday, 95 years on from its initial release.

That means anyone is now free to copy, share, reuse and adapt the primitive, early versions of the characters that appear within the film, including Mickey and girlfriend Minnie.

Despite warnings from Disney that it would seek to safeguard its most iconic character, opportunistic filmmakers had been expected to quickly announce their own unofficial remakes and adaptations – and they did not disappoint.

Mickey's Mouse Trap will feature a masked killer dressed as Mickey stalking a group of young friends through an amusement arcade, while another untitled horror-comedy sees a sadistic mouse tormenting unsuspecting ferry passengers.

"We just wanted to have fun with it all," said Mickey's Mouse Trap director Jamie Bailey, in a trailer posted on YouTube.

"I mean it's Steamboat Willie's Mickey Mouse murdering people. It's ridiculous. We ran with it and had fun doing it and I think it shows."

The low-budget horror-comedy is expected to launch in March.

Meanwhile filmmaker Steven LaMorte – known for The Mean One, a 2022 slasher romp inspired by The Grinch – is working on his own "twisted take" on Mickey.

"Steamboat Willie has brought joy to generations, but beneath that cheerful exterior lies a potential for pure, unhinged terror," he said.

Analysts say Disney is likely to send in the lawyers if anyone oversteps.

Only the earliest, black-and-white version of Mickey is in the public domain – not the colourful character from later Disney films like Fantasia. And trademark protections mean that any film or product that could mislead consumers into thinking it was made by Disney could be liable.

Meghan and Harry in Dusseldorf last year. Picture: Getty

'Redemption unlikely'

Tiffany Bakker

Meghan Markle and Prince Harry won't get the "year of redemption" they are hoping for in 2024, according to a royal author.

The Duke and Duchess of Sussex are said to be planning a fresh start, after facing backlash last year for their Netflix documentary and Prince Harry's bombshell biography, Spare.

"Harry and Meghan have let it be known that they see 2024 as their year of redemption, to which my reaction is 'good luck with that'," said royal expert and author Phil Dampier.

"It's a trite phrase dreamt up by their Hollywood PR people and in reality means very little. Actions speak louder than words and the Sussekses need to do things which will convince the public that they want to redeem themselves, not just talk about it."

The Sussekses' absence was strikingly apparent on Christmas Day when the rest of the royal family, including King Charles, Prince William and Kate Middleton, went to church at Sandringham.

Mr Dampier said the inclusion of Prince Andrew's former wife, Sarah Ferguson, on the Christmas guest list for the first time in years, sent a strong message.

"The royals put on a show of unity at Christmas, with even Prince Andrew's ex-wife Fergie being allowed to walk to church and join them for lunch," he said.

"The message was clear – everyone was welcome except Harry and Meghan."

Mr Dampier said Harry and Meghan could not "compete" with the Prince and Princess of Wales.

"I think the penny has finally dropped with them that they can never compete with an ancient institution admired around the world, particularly the goodwill still lingering from the late Queen's reign," he said.

"William and Kate have never been more popular and the Sussekses can't hold a candle to them."

Hamas deputy killed by drone

Fears conflict will widen

Andrew Koubaridis and Tiffany Bakker

Hamas's deputy leader was killed in an Israeli drone strike in suburban Beirut as Israel's war against Palestinian militants reached Lebanon.

Saleh al-Aruri was killed along with his bodyguards in the strike by Israel, which vowed to destroy Hamas after the movement's unprecedented October 7 attacks on Israel.

Aruri, one of the founders of Hamas' military wing, had headed the group's presence in the West Bank and had been a target for Israel even before the October 7 attack that killed 1,200 Israelis.

Israel has previously announced the killing in Gaza of Hamas commanders and officials during the war, but Aruri is the most high-profile figure to be killed, and his death came in the first strike on the Lebanese capital since the war began. Israeli army spokesman Daniel Hagari did not directly comment on Aruri's killing but said the military was "highly prepared for any scenario" in its aftermath.

A security official in Lebanon confirmed the information about Aruri's killing.

Lebanese state media reported the strike hit a Hamas office in Beirut's southern suburbs, a stronghold of Lebanon's Iran-backed Hezbollah movement, a Hamas ally.

Hamas TV also said Israel had killed Aruri in Lebanon, and Lebanese media reported a total of seven people were killed in the attack by an Israeli drone. The strike fuels widespread fears that the nearly three-month-old Israel-Hamas war could become a wider regional conflict.

Hamas said the killing would not lead to its defeat, while Hezbollah vowed Aruri's death would not go "unpunished".

Hezbollah called it "a serious assault on Lebanon ... and a dangerous development in the course of the war".

Lebanese Prime Minister Najib Mikati condemned the killing and said it "aims to draw Lebanon" further into the Israel-Hamas war.

In a call with Israeli war cabinet member Benny Gantz after the strike, French President Emmanuel Macron urged Israel to "avoid any escalatory attitude, particularly in Lebanon".

Since the fighting began on October 8, the fighting has been concentrated a few kilometres from the border but on several occasions Israel's air force hit Hezbollah targets deeper in Lebanon.

Earlier in the day, Hezbollah said its fighters carried out several attacks along the Lebanon-Israel border targeting Israeli military posts. It comes as Israeli troops announced they had also killed a Hamas commander who helped lead the October 7 attack.

Adil Mismah, the Nukhba Company Commander of the city of Deir al-Balah, was "eliminated," Israeli Defense Forces said via social media.

Mismah had led terrorists into the Kibbutz Kissufim and ordered other gunmen to ravage the communities of Nirim and Be'eri, according to The Jerusalem Post.

The commander was slain in an air strike directed by Israeli ground troops, officials said.

Drugs fear unfounded

A chemical used in the diabetes drug Ozempic and the weight-management drug Wegovy is not associated with an increased risk for suicidal thoughts, US researchers say.

The Case Western Reserve School of Medicine findings about the chemical – known as semaglutide – is significant because this summer the European Medicines Agency (EMA) launched an investigation of its potential dangers.

Semaglutide is a chemical of the glucagon-like peptide receptor (GLP-1R) that helps regulate blood sugar in type 2 diabetes and reduces appetite.

After examining about two million patients, the research team found no evidence to support the EMA's concern that semaglutide may cause suicidal ideations.

Nostradamus' 2024 prophecy comes true

Ben Cost - New York Post

It was a literally groundbreaking prophecy.

As if Nostradamus' foretellings weren't eerily accurate enough, the iconic astrologer was apparently right on the money with yet another apocalyptic prophecy just hours into 2024.

Also known as the Prophet Of Doom, the 16th-century French philosopher is best known for his foreboding forecasts, which he chronicled in his 1555 text "Les Propheties".

These 943 verses are somewhat too vague to be sure, but Nostradamus has been credited with predicting everything from the Rise Of Adolf Hitler to Covid-19 like a 450-year-old Century "Simpsons" cartoon.

This time, the Frenchman was credited with forecasting the powerful earthquake that rocked Japan on New Year's Day. Outlining his predictions for 2024, the oracle wrote, "The dry Earth will become more parched and there will be great floods."

The psychic's followers reckoned that he could've been referring to the 7.5 magnitude tremor that struck the nation's Western coast, killing 48 people, toppling buildings and sparking 1m-high tsunamis.

According to reports, residents in coastal communities fled to higher ground as the waves battered the coast, sweeping houses and cars into the sea.

Nostradamus' prediction was apparently not the only harbinger of a seismic calamity.

Over the summer, divers in Taiwan encountered an injured giant oarfish, the "Doomsday fish" which is said to be a sign of impending earthquakes.

A tragic start to our year

Following the death of a two-year girl in Eungella on New Year's Eve, North Queensland has been rocked by the death of a missing Burdekin boy, 22.

These tragedies, already unspeakably horrible for the families and loved ones to deal with, are made worse by the time of the year.

The holidays are not always holidays.

They can be painful reminders of strained relationships, family trauma, and disconnection from our loved ones.

Beyond the dangers of increased highway fatalities, the tension between what should be a fun, carefree period, and the reality of our state of mental health is a huge burden to bear.

Any readers who have lost loved ones in this period will understand the difficulty of trying to find peace and joy when the pain of the past rings loudest.

It is not always easy to share how you feel with the people that care about you. Not everyone has someone to lean on, confide with, and share the truth about their lives — and we can sometimes misuse or misapply the 'she'll be right' beauty of North Queensland to avoid the hard conversations.

Two families, two worlds, centred around two people gone too soon will now have to face down their grief in a time when we are expected to unwind in advance of the year ahead.

Our deepest condolences for their losses.

It is the small acts of kindness that keep us all going, and we encourage you to show grace, restraint, and patience in the new year, not only to your loved ones — who can get under our skin like no others — but the strangers we interact with every day.

You can make the choice to be generous, assume the best of people, and brighten up the lives of those around you.

You can never really know what struggles another person is facing, nor how much joy kindness spreads.

If you've ever felt the kindness of a stranger, or generosity of a person helping you for no other reason than it being the right thing to do, you know the relief it brings.

We are all on this lonely blue rock in space together.

Warner's farewell

Mitchell Johnson is 100% correct: David Warner should not be celebrated with a farewell test.

He was the mastermind behind Sand paper gate. He planned the whole incident that, not only brought Australian Cricket into disrepute, but embarrassed us as a nation.

Steve Smith was no better as a weak captain who had full knowledge of what was going on and did nothing about it. Cameron Bancroft was the fall guy and had a promising career cut short by Warner's actions.

Other controversial actions by our national cricket representatives, i.e. the Bairstow stumping and the Chapel brothers underarm delivery (both within the law of the game), pale into insignificance to what this despicable individual did.

After a suspension, a few tears and a halfhearted apology, he was forgiven. Come on Australia. The man brought shame on the sport and the country. He should have been banned for life, along with Steve.

Puzzling comments

I refer to the article Page 17 (TB) 30.12.23 Cops to target repeat cohort and the comments made by the senior police officer when he states that he backs his frontline staff to arrest and lock up hard core offenders wreaking havoc across the state. I find that comment puzzling as if there is a power of arrest for an offence found committing, or on suspicion why would this senior officer make a statement advising he backs his frontline staff in arresting the offender/s I would have thought that was a matter of fact without question.

The senior officer and others keep saying that the youth crime issue is a very complex one, let's look at his words "We have to hold serious recidivist offenders to account but we have got to make sure we don't treat everyone the same way. We have to make sure the young offenders that are just coming into the system we're doing everything in our power to divert them out of it".

May I suggest that a definition of recidivist offender be implemented e.g. 3 court appearances and then a minimum sentencing is imposed apparently we have seven or 13 years imprisonment in place for certain offences but the sentences have never been imposed by the court. As to the young ones coming into the system put in place a meaningful deterrent to deter them from a life of crime if government is aware the home life of an individual is somewhat left wanting remove the person then get them off drugs, try and educate them to a reasonable standard, feed them and see if they have any inkling to take up some form of work or even a trade.

Reducing the school week to 4 days, you are in a dream. A very high percentage of students can't write legibly, can't do basic mathematics without a calculator and have poor grammar and spelling, this is with a 5 day week. Maybe if the system had less emphasis on the left field political rot being shoved down the students' throats and more emphasis on teaching good basic knowledge our students standing in the world rankings would not be falling the way it is.

The $10 billion reinsurance scheme provided by federal government is a farce. This scheme was developed to give people living in Northern Australia relief from the inflated house insurance premiums charged by insurance companies which are 2 to 3 times higher than the rest of Australia. My insurer wrote to me to say that this $10 billion fund would not reduce my premiums! So where are these funds obtained by our insurers being used? The federal government needs to sort this out. An alternative would be for the government to give me say $2000 direct to my bank account so that I can direct the money to paying my house insurance.

Left's attack a big blow to our social cohesion

James Morrow

It feels like the annual fight over Australia Day comes around earlier and earlier every year. Perhaps it's because the Bureau of Meteorology failed to deliver on its promise of a long, hot summer to keep us otherwise distracted.

Or maybe it's because after the Voice, everyone's nerves are a bit on edge over the subject. But either way, the battle is on – again.

A few days ago we learned that 81 councils across the country had decided to ditch their Australia Day citizenship ceremonies out of respect for Aboriginal sensibilities, despite the country voting overwhelmingly against precisely this sort of racialised grandstanding at the referendum.

Now, of course this is bad.

It is yet another example of local government doing the opposite of what local voters want and thinking their remit goes beyond the honourable if dull trinity of rates, roads and rubbish.

The trend against Australia Day citizenship ceremonies is also precisely what Prime Minister Anthony Albanese hoped would develop when he opened the door to councils freelancing date changes when he modified the rules around these things back in December 2022.

And it is another blow against Australia's social cohesion, which is already fraying badly.

Our formerly easygoing, reasonably high trust society is, by any measure, doing poorly.

Whether it is something sinister like ethnic mobs intimidating Jews and forcing changes to government policy on Israel or more subtle developments like electronic gates at supermarkets (message: we think you're all thieves) there is a growing sense that we are no longer all in this together. The most recent Scanlon Social Cohesion Report put numbers behind this: Just 48 per cent of us now feel a strong sense of belonging and only 33 per cent feel a strong pride in the Australian way of life.

No wonder progressives – despite the referendum loss – think they are pushing on an open door in their attempt to remake Australia and crack our common foundations.

So, what are conservatives and non-political Australians who just want to feel a part of, and pride in, their nation supposed to do?

The first thing, as always, is to recognise that there is a problem.

Then, stop shying away from the solutions. That the so-called progressive side of politics has wanted to hollow out the meaning of modern Australia for its own cynical purposes is well documented.

For the left, post-First Fleet Australia was an illegitimate and genocidal monstrosity that only began to redeem itself with the official adoption of multiculturalism.

Our British inheritance is looked upon as something tacky and a bit shameful, like a slightly embarrassing handed-down collection of commemorative plates no one quite knows what to do with. At the same time the story of us as a prison colony turned prosperous democracy is a triumph that does not fit the narrative.

Yet the right, too, has to shoulder some of the blame.

In office for nine years, the Coalition did nothing serious to reform Julia Gillard's disastrous Australian Curriculum.

Many in the Coalition have also shied away from these discussions for fear of being seen as "nativist" or have been seduced by Big Australia business lobbies that see population growth in solely economic terms.

Beyond lip service to "a fair go" and "mateship", the collective Australian ideal has, over time, started to ring a bit hollow. Particularly for young Australians who feel comprehensively duded by the housing market and whose ire is being stoked by a weird coalition of property developers, activists and think-tank economists. The result is that the citizenship that may or may not be conferred to migrants on Australia Day is less about joining a family with a proud (if, yes, imperfect) story to tell and more about locking in one's status to vote and stay and claim Medicare. And when, even with that citizenship, new Australians are told to preserve the old ways, not only does it raise the question "what's the point?" but it can get downright dangerous.

Think about how, Scott Morrison's admirable and tough stance on China was blamed for the Liberals losing Australian voters of Chinese extraction in key seats at the 2022 election. This is not to say that ethnic constituencies are acting as fifth columns but it is to note that they are lacking any sort of meaningful idea around what it is to be Australian.

AI can be a highly useful tool in education

James Thorley

Since ChatGPT's launch in November 2022, Australian universities have been concerned about the potential for this highly accessible form of generative artificial intelligence to amplify cheating, with just as many optimistic about the opportunities it offers when used the right way.

Some students, on the other hand, have been spooked by AI writing detectors – worried they'll be falsely accused, with a handful already reporting their original work has been marked as plagiarism.

While higher education continues to grapple with what place ChatGPT should hold within the sector, it must also evaluate what AI detection is and should be.

As of July 2023, of the 65 million submissions processed through Turnitin for AI writing, 9.5 per cent featured over 20 per cent AI writing and 3.3 per cent contained between 80 and 100 per cent AI writing.

The data is no guide to misconduct or misuse of AI, as there could be many legitimate uses within those numbers, but it gives very interesting insight into usage patterns and, over time, will be able to highlight some key trends.

Likewise on an individual paper, AI detection should not be used as a sole indicator of cheating or AI misuse.

Instead, the job of AI detection is to give educators the information they need to investigate and work with students to determine the best next steps to optimise their learning and results. It is an 'assistant' to teachers to supplement existing methods for detecting plagiarism and unoriginal work (such as contract cheating).

The pandemic-forced attempt to 'lift and shift' education to the digital realm showed that technology shouldn't, and can't, work alone.

It remains, as it always was, critical for humans to play the leading role in education. In the context of managing generative AI, that means not only giving teachers tools to detect ChatGPT but investing in their digital upskilling so they can effectively use those capabilities alongside their existing skills.

Longer term, the important question is how academia adapts to the increasing presence of generative AI. Educators need to continue looking at improved ways to design assessments, whatever the format, to minimise opportunities for misconduct.

When used the right way, AI is one of the most powerful and transformative technologies available to us. A ban on generative AI will not only be ineffective from an academic integrity point of view, but could also be harmful to the progress which could be made.

James Thorley is Regional Vice President, APAC at Turnitin.

Iron ore majors remain strong

Valerina Changarathil

The strong outperformance of iron ore majors in 2023 is likely to run for at least the next six months with China's steel production at "robust levels and expected to move higher", analysts at Citi say.

While slowing global growth is expected to be a headwind for metals this year, the momentum underpinning China's steel build-up and potential higher than expected earnings are strong tailwinds for the sector.

It comes as China's port inventories of iron ore are struggling to recover given ongoing supply-side tightness.

Citi's research head Paul McTaggart said the broker was looking for a reversal in iron ore/metals performance – but not until well into the second half of this year.

"In addition, consensus estimates for iron ore prices in Q4 CY23 and 1H CY24 look too low, so earnings momentum for the iron ore exposures is expected to remain positive in the first months of CY24."

On Wednesday, iron ore futures on the Singapore exchange were stronger at around $US142.55 a tonne – close to its 21-month high of $US143 a tonne a day earlier.

These prices are still higher than first-half consensus iron ore price forecast of $US108/tonne and Citi's estimate of $US125 a tonne.

That milestone on Tuesday triggered record closing prices for Rio Tinto at $136.57 and Fortescue at $29.39.

Both are tracking losses on Wednesday afternoon – in line with the overall ASX 200 slump of more than 1 per cent. Rio is down near $134.89 and Fortescue near $28.99.

On Wednesday, Fortescue confirmed it is "on target for normal operations to resume today" in WA's Pilbara region after a derailment on Saturday. No one was injured in the incident that involved multiple iron ore cars derailed about 150km south of Port Hedland. The incident did not have an impact on December or first-half shipped tonnes, but it's not clear if January exports are affected.

Citi retained its buy rating on Rio Tinto and left BHP at neutral.

BYD overtakes Tesla in drive for EV power

Rebecca Elliott

Chinese automaker BYD for the first time topped Tesla as the world's largest seller of electric vehicles on a quarterly basis, a sign of China's emerging strength in the global market for battery-powered cars.

BYD reported selling more than 526,000 fully electric vehicles in the fourth quarter of 2023, compared with Tesla's sales of nearly 485,000 for the same period.

Tesla remained ahead of BYD for the full year though.

Elon Musk's electric-car maker said it delivered about 1.8 million EVs worldwide in 2023, meeting its full-year guidance and slightly beating Wall Street's expectations.

The figure was 38 per cent higher than the previous year, showing that Tesla's growth rate slowed slightly as the company has entered an increasingly competitive chapter defined by more gradual expansion and slimmer profit margins.

By comparison, the Warren Buffett-backed BYD sold nearly 1.6 million battery-powered vehicles last year, up more than 70 per cent over 2022. Overall sales of more than three million new-energy vehicles in 2023 were up 62 per cent from a year earlier.

Though nearly 90 per cent of BYD's sales still came from China in December, its exports have been growing fast – overseas sales in the second half of 2023 more than tripled from a year earlier.

Tesla's results come as concerns are growing on Wall Street about the level of demand for the company's cars – and electric vehicles more broadly – in the year ahead.

The electric-car market has shown signs of cooling after a period of heady growth that has driven robust profit margins for Tesla.

In the US, some automakers are finding fewer people are ready to go electric than they expected, as anxieties about finding enough places to publicly charge persist and higher interest rates make cars more difficult to afford.

Rival electric-vehicle maker Rivian Automotive delivered 50,122 EVs last year, missing Wall Street's expectations. Its vehicle sales for the fourth quarter fell 10 per cent over the third quarter, despite an increase in factory output.

Other major car companies are expected to report year-end sales figures for the US this week.

Abroad, competition continues to intensify in the EV space.

Tesla's share of China's electric-vehicle market has held relatively steady, ticking up to nearly 12 per cent in the first 11 months of 2023, from almost 11 per cent in the same period the year prior. Full-year sales figures for the country have yet to be reported.

Tesla's shares kicked off 2024 in the red amid widespread declines on the tech-focused Nasdaq index.

Tesla shares roughly doubled in value in 2023 as the company slashed prices to juice demand and Wall Street regained confidence in the company's ability to execute on its longer-term plans.

Tesla aims to develop autonomous cars and halve production costs for its next generation of vehicles, which is widely expected to include a more affordable car.

In the near term, many investors are bracing for a tougher year ahead. Tesla delivered its first Cybertruck utility vehicles to customers late last year, a milestone for a company that hadn't rolled out a new passenger-vehicle model in three years.

Meanwhile, Tesla's steep price cuts over the past year have squeezed the company's once industry-leading operating margin, which as of the third quarter had fallen more in line with other major automakers.

Some on Wall Street question how much more room Tesla has to grow without another less expensive car in its line-up. Its Model 3 sedan and Model Y crossover made up 96 per cent of Tesla's global deliveries last year.

The least expensive Model 3 starts at about $US39,000 ($57,500) in the US.

Tesla is scheduled to report year-end financial results on January 24.

Don't click! Parcel delivery texts to stop in bid to beat scams

Jared Lynch

E-commerce companies are set to phase out text messages alerting people of when parcels are likely to be delivered this year in an attempt to close a common entry point for cyber criminals.

Richard Thame, chief executive of Singapore Post-owned Couriers Please, expects more companies to switch to Amazon-style app notifications.

"It's very rare for consumers in advanced overseas economies to get a tracking link via SMS," Mr Thame said.

"Clickable links on mobile devices will die off over the next year. Its life has probably been prolonged here in Australia."

"And I think there's a whole new generation of consumers who are using social platforms, so I think the next stage is that more seamless integration with the various other social platforms as well."

SMiShing, a variant of phishing, is a common tactic cyber criminals use, involving sending simple text messages with an urgent "call to action", such as asking where they would like a parcel delivered or to unlock and verify an account.

Once a fraudulent link is clicked, hackers can gain access to personal information, and mobile phones, banking apps and email inboxes, potentially fleecing people of their life savings.

In the first 10 months of last year, Australians reported more than 11,000 parcel delivery scams to Scamwatch, with more than $720,000 lost.

It is understood many more scams are unreported out of embarrassment.

People are at greatest risk of falling victim to the scams during peak delivery periods such as Christmas, when they might not scrutinise SMS alerts as closely.

Scammers are also more sophisticated at impersonating legitimate delivery providers, such as Australia Post, making it harder for customers to tell what is genuine.

Fake invoicing is a common type of scam that has hit car dealers, real estate agents and customers.

Customers are advised to verify bank account details when a payment is requested in writing via email to mitigate the risk of such attacks.

The Australian Competition and Consumer Commission offers similar advice in regard to SMS parcel delivery scams.

"Never click on links in text messages or emails, even if you're expecting a delivery," ACCC deputy chair Catriona Lowe said.

The goods described in this advertisement may not be on display or available at each Harvey Norman® Complex, or online if specified as "available in store only". Please call 1300 GO HARVEY (1300 464 278) before attending a Harvey Norman® Complex to enquire whether a franchisee at that complex has the goods on display or available. Ends 14/01/24. Each Harvey Norman® store is operated by an independent franchisee. Furniture prices displayed are valid in state capital metropolitan areas only (excluding Northern Territory and Tasmania). Prices in country areas will be higher due to additional freight charges. Lounges are upholstered in promotional leathers and fabrics. Other options may be available at additional cost. *1. Available on selected transactions made at independent Harvey Norman® franchisees between 27/12/23 and 29/01/24. Excludes purchases of mobile phones, gaming consoles, gift cards, digital cameras and lenses, hot water system supply & installation, Microsoft Surface Studio products, Apple, Miele and Harvey Norman Customer Direct products. Excludes brands and products that are purchased by customers directly from suppliers at Harvey Norman® franchisee stores. Interest free offer is available to customers who hold a Latitude GO Mastercard or other participating Latitude credit card including Latitude Gem Visa, CreditLine and Buyer's Edge. Total amount is payable by 60 monthly repayments (the exact amount of each monthly repayment is specified in your statement). Monthly account service fee of $9.95 applies (subject to change). If there is an outstanding balance after the interest free period ends, Latitude customers will be charged interest by Latitude Finance Australia, currently 26.99% per annum (subject to change). Visit www.gomastercard.com.au/interest-free-offers for more information on the provision of credit by Latitude Finance Australia. *2. From 27/12/23 to 29/01/24, customers who purchase products from a Harvey Norman®, Domayne® or Joyce Mayne® franchisee using the Interest Free offer from Latitude Finance Australia (as described above in *1) with a purchase price of $1,000 or more (Eligible Purchase) will be eligible to receive one Harvey Norman®, Domayne® or Joyce Mayne® gift card (Gift Card). Each Gift Card is issued by Darni Pty Ltd, expires 36 months from the date of issue and is subject to the Gift Card Terms and Conditions available at www.harveynorman.com.au/gift-cards-terms-and-conditions. Gift cards may be used at any Harvey Norman®, Domayne® or Joyce Mayne® franchisee. The applicable Gift Card value is based on the purchase price of the Eligible Purchase: spend $1,000 or more and receive a $100 Gift Card; spend $2,000 or more and receive a $200 Gift Card; spend $3,000 or more and receive a $300 Gift Card; spend $4,000 or more and receive a $400 Gift Card; spend $5,000 or more and receive a $500 Gift Card; spend $6,000 or more and receive a $600 Gift Card; spend $7,000 or more and receive a $700 Gift Card; spend $8,000 or more and receive a $800 Gift Card; spend $9,000 or more and receive a $900 Gift Card; spend $10,000 or more and receive a $1,000 Gift Card. *3 Terms and conditions apply, see page 12 for details. THE BINGE GUIDE

Best is yet to come

Siobhan Duck flags seven new shows that will keep you glued to the small screen in 2024

The Regime (Binge) This sweeping miniseries sees Kate Winslet (pictured) play a despot trying to hold on to the last vestiges of her power in a fictional European country. Hugh Grant co-stars as the opposition leader, whose jailing triggers unrest and the arrival of the US secretary of state (Martha Plimpton). Premieres February 26.

Swift Street (SBS and SBS On Demand) This series follows street-smart Elsie (Tanzyn Crawford), who discovers that her old-school hustler father, Robert (Cliff Curtis), is being hunted down by a merciless crime boss over a bad debt. When the 21-year-old decides to help him, it sparks the beginnings of a reconciliation – and their dubious reign as partners in crime. Coming in 2024.

The Twelve (Binge) Sam Neill returns as Brett Colby, a shrewd barrister who travels to rural Western Australia with his co-counsel, Meredith Nelson-Moore (Frances O'Connor), to take on a high-profile murder case. Like the first season, this courtroom drama takes viewers inside the jury room, where we learn about the biases of those sitting in judgement. Coming in 2024.

Top Gear Australia (Paramount+) An Aussie version of the popular UK format was first given a test drive back in 2008 on SBS. Can the new hosts Beau Ryan, Jonathan LaPaglia and Blair Joscelyne recapture the energy and chemistry of the original? Coming in 2024.

Return To Paradise (ABC TV and iView) The British-French crime comedy Death In Paradise franchise hits our shores with this spin-off about an Aussie expat in the London police force who returns to her hometown of Dolphin Cove – where she finds herself solving a lot of murders. Coming in 2024.

The Last Anniversary (Binge) Based on the bestseller by Liane Moriarty (Big Little Lies), this thriller stars Teresa Palmer as a single woman who inherits a house on an island filled with secrets – and unwelcoming townsfolk. Coming in 2024.

Dream Home (Seven Network and 7Plus) Dr Chris Brown hosts this new renovation show in which six couples turn their humble homes into showstoppers, room-by-room. Coming in 2024.

STARS

OSCAR CAINER
For free forecasts go to ozfree.cainer.com

Today, as Mars (the power planet) moves into earthy Capricorn, it gears up to create a talent triangle. This formation involves Mars and Jupiter working in harmony, encouraged by the cosmic teacher, Saturn. Together, they paint a picture of a growing confidence in our ability to turn ideas into progress. But we can't sit back and just hope for the best. The more enthusiasm we apply to our work, the better, and the faster the results of our efforts will be seen.

ARIES MAR 21-APR 20

There's no point in me telling you that today is the first day of the rest of your life. You're very familiar with the expression. You know that even though it might feel similar to yesterday (and tomorrow), it's not. Which emphasises the value of today's forecast. The new year is under way and your ruler, Mars, is playing a key role in the exciting cosmic outlook. You have the freedom to transform what you want in your world. Why not choose today to be the day to start turning your life into what you want it to be?

LEO JUL 24-AUG 23

Before you can set out on the high-seas adventure of 2024, you need to get some work done on your boat. For now, you're in a safe harbour getting on with some rather dull jobs. It's easy to think of other things to do (that would be much more fun), but the tasks you need to complete aren't as tedious as you think. Nor are they going to take long to finish. If you look towards the horizon, you'll get a feel for the opportunities ahead. Preparations you're doing now will enable you to sail out and seize them.

SAGITTARIUS NOV 23-DEC 21

The start of 2024 is a bit like one of those complicated jigsaws. You don't seem to have an image of what it will look like once it's complete. In fact, you're not even sure you've got all the pieces. You're managing to fit some parts together, but they won't join up into a cohesive picture. It's frustrating. Yet with power planet Mars moving into earthy Capricorn, you'll find it easier to concentrate. If you stay motivated, you'll soon find a way to put everything together in a way that makes perfect sense.

TAURUS APR 21-MAY 21

Why do we think being stubborn is wrong? I think it's a quality that needs to be appreciated. So many people give up at the first obstacle, or change their minds at the drop of a hat. Thank goodness for Taurus. You're not afraid to stand up for your beliefs. Right now though, it's worth questioning if this could be a time when a compromise would be more effective. A small concession could have positive effects today (and if needed, you can always go back to your original stance).

VIRGO AUG 24-SEP 23

It's all a matter of perspective. Depending on how we feel, and what we want to see, we view the situations we're dealing with very differently. When we're optimistic, we can find silver linings, even in difficult scenarios. But when we're not, it's as if we're wearing dark shades, which give everything a gloomy look. Today, as dynamic Mars enters earthy Capricorn, it brings the energy to fan a glimmer of hope into a realistic aspiration. With just a simple change of attitude, you can take steps to make your future brighter.

CAPRICORN DEC 22-JAN 20

Dynamic Mars enters your sign today, and as 2024 progresses, you'll feel increasingly aware that the sky has your best interests at heart. The cosmic support you're receiving will be reflected by the opportunities coming your way. If you're not yet feeling galvanised into action, you don't have long to wait. Meanwhile, try focusing on the potential available to you today. Even if it doesn't feel like much, it hides a small treasure, and with the right attitude, you can encourage it to grow into something valuable.

GEMINI MAY 22-JUN 22

Questions always pop up at the start of a new year. What should you be doing with your life? What do you need to feel fulfilled and happy? These kinds of ponderings are tricky as they can throw us into a quagmire of self-doubt. Does anyone feel successful all the time? I doubt it. The best strategy to follow is to be confident that whatever you're doing right now, and wherever you're doing it, it's the right thing to be doing. With this attitude any doubts will disappear and you'll be on the path to progress.

LIBRA SEP 24-OCT 23

It's astonishing how we sometimes find ourselves doing the opposite of what we know we should do. We step on the brake (rather than the accelerator). Or we say no to something we ought to say yes to. It's easy, with hindsight, to see we'd have been better off following a different course. Yet looking back with regret is never helpful. If you want to maximise the opportunities 2024 brings your way, you just need to forgive yourself and move on. With a clear conscience, you'll be unstoppable.

AQUARIUS JAN 21-FEB 19

There's no denying the fact that you're moving into the future. The new year stretches ahead of you like a blank canvas of possibilities. I hope you're ready, because there's no going back. If you're regretting a recent choice which left you feeling uncomfortable, as you move deeper into the new year you'll grow more at ease with it. Deep down, you're growing more confident you're on the right track. Today, as Mars moves into your neighbouring sign, even tentative steps forwards will take you further than you think.

CANCER JUN 23-JUL 23

You don't usually struggle to articulate your ideas. So, to find yourself unable to say what's in your heart is making you uneasy. You're worried that if you speak out, you'll cause an upset. You're probably right, yet your instincts are spot on and you're right to think something needs to be discussed. Be as diplomatic as you can be today (but don't be afraid to be bold). You've got the insight and skills to be able to talk about the elephant in the room. Once it's in the open, everyone will be relieved, and able to move on.

SCORPIO OCT 24-NOV 22

How badly do you want what you want? Hmm... Instead of how badly, maybe we should use more positive language. How deeply maybe? What's important, is that you remember you don't need to focus on one thing to the detriment of everything else. The start of 2024 is about aspiring to achieve your deepest desire. You need to be dedicated (even when the road ahead isn't smooth), but stay open-minded enough to be able to adapt your approach. The cosmos helps you find the right balance today.

PISCES FEB 20-MAR 20

We talk about there being no time like the present. But it's hard to pinpoint when the present actually is. It was certainly a different present when the saying originated more than 450 years ago! Maybe you're better off going along with whatever 2024 brings your way, and trust that you'll recognise the time to instigate change when it appears? On second thoughts, don't do that. If you're meant to wait, the cosmos will create distractions, but if there are none of those around today, seize the moment.

SEASON'S BEST

Fabulous fruit

Make the most of summer mangoes with these recipes

MACADAMIA, MANGO & COCONUT TART

SERVES 10. PREP 1 HOUR 30 MINS. COOK 15 MINS

Ingredients

- 145g (1 cup) roasted salted macadamias
- 50g (½ cup) rolled oats
- 30g (½ cup) moist coconut flakes
- 1 tbsp coconut sugar
- 75g butter, melted
- 2 mangoes, peeled, thinly sliced
- 2 passionfruit, halved
- Toasted flaked coconut, to serve

Tart filling

- 170g carton vanilla quark-style yoghurt
- 250g light cream cheese, at room temperature
- 1 ½ tbsp fresh lemon juice
- 1 tsp gelatine powder
- 1 tbsp maple syrup
- 2 tsp vanilla bean paste

Method

- 1 Preheat the oven to 180C/160C fan-forced. Grease a 22cm fluted tart tin with removable base with olive oil spray. Place macadamias, oats, coconut and sugar in a food processor. Process until finely chopped. Add the butter and process until the mixture just comes together. Wipe the bowl of the food processor clean.
- 2 Press the mixture firmly into the base and side of the prepared tin. Place in the fridge for 10 minutes. Place the tin on a baking tray. Bake for 10-15 minutes or until the base is lightly golden. Use the back of a spoon to flatten the base and side of the pastry case evenly. Set aside to cool.
- 3 For the filling, process the quark and cream cheese until smooth. Pour the lemon juice into a small heatproof bowl. Sprinkle gelatine over the lemon juice. Place the bowl inside a larger heatproof bowl. Pour boiling water into the larger bowl until it reaches halfway up the side of the smaller bowl. Use a fork to stir to dissolve gelatine. Add to the cream cheese mixture and process until smooth. Add the maple syrup and vanilla. Process to combine. Pour into the cooled tart base and smooth the surface. Place in the fridge for 1-2 hours or until just set.

4 Remove the tart from the tin. Curl mango slices and place on top of the tart. Drizzle over the passionfruit pulp and scatter with the toasted coconut.

SLOW COOKER MANGO CHICKEN

SERVES 4. PREP 15 MINS. COOK 4 HOURS

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp yellow curry paste
- 1 tsp ground turmeric
- 6 RSPCA approved chicken thigh fillets, trimmed, halved crossways
- 500g pkt frozen mango cheeks, partially thawed, coarsely chopped (see note)
- 2 red capsicum, deseeded, thickly sliced
- 1 large red onion, cut into wedges
- 1 tbsp finely grated fresh ginger
- 3 garlic cloves, crushed
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 200ml UHT coconut cream (see note)
- 1 tbsp brown sugar
- 2 green onions, thinly sliced
- ½ cup fresh coriander leaves
- 1 fresh long red chilli, thinly sliced
- Lime wedges, to serve
- Steamed rice, to serve

Method

- 1 Combine the curry paste and turmeric in a large bowl. Add the chicken, season and toss well to combine. Set aside.
- 2 Place half the mango in a food processor and process until smooth. Transfer to the bowl of a slow cooker. Stir in 80ml (⅓ cup) water. Top with capsicum, onion, ginger and garlic.
- 3 Heat oil in a large frying pan over medium-high heat. Add chicken and cook, turning, for 5 minutes or until golden brown. Add to the slow cooker bowl. Cover and cook on Low for 3 hours or until the chicken is starting to become tender.
- 4 Add coconut cream to the slow cooker. Cover and cook on High for 1 hour or until the sauce thickens slightly. Stir in the remaining mango along with the sugar. Cook for a further 10 minutes or until the mango has warmed through. Turn off slow cooker and set aside for 5 minutes to rest.
- 5 Divide rice among serving plates. Add chicken and sprinkle with green onions, coriander and chilli. Serve with lime wedges.

NOTES

- When mango is in season, substitute 500g of fresh mango pieces for this recipe.
- UHT coconut cream has been heat-treated and although rich and creamy it doesn't curdle in the slow cooker. Swap for a 270ml can coconut cream if unavailable.

LIZ MACRI

PRAWN & DEVILLED MANGO SALAD

SERVES 6. PREP 10 MINS

Ingredients

- 1 mango
- 2 Lebanese cucumbers
- 60g packet baby rocket
- ½ cup small fresh mint leaves
- 500g cooked prawns, peeled, deveined, tails intact
- 45g (¼ cup) honey-roasted macadamias
- Lemon infused extra virgin olive oil, to drizzle
- Devilled mango dip
- 80g (⅓ cup) whole egg mayonnaise
- 90g (⅓ cup) mango chutney
- 2 tsp sriracha chilli sauce

Method

- 1 To make devilled mango dip, combine all ingredients in a bowl then transfer to

- 2 a small serving bowl. Season.
- 2 Slice the mango and peel the cucumbers into ribbons.
- 3 Place the dip in the centre of a serving platter. Toss together rocket and mint in a bowl. Arrange on the platter with mango, cucumber and prawns. Sprinkle with macadamias and drizzle over oil to serve.

SPEEDY THAI CHICKEN RISSOLES WITH MANGO SALAD

SERVES 4. PREP 10 MINS. COOK 10 MINS

Ingredients

- 500g chicken mince
- 2 tbsp Gourmet Garden Thai seasoning
- 1 tbsp grapeseed oil
- ½ bunch fresh mint
- 250g pkt zucchini noodles
- 80g mixed salad leaves
- 1 large mango
- 80g (⅓ cup) sweet chilli-flavoured cashews
- 1 lime
- Kewpie mayonnaise sriracha flavour, to serve

Method

- 1 Heat a large non-stick frying pan over medium-high heat.

- 2 Place chicken and Thai seasoning in a bowl. Use clean hands to mix until well combined.
- 3 Once pan is hot, add oil. Use wetted hands to shape into 8 small patties. Cook patties for 2 minutes then turn over. Cover and cook for a further 3 minutes or until cooked through.
- 4 Meanwhile, pick mint sprigs then arrange zucchini, salad leaves and mint on a serving platter. Thinly slice the mango and add to the platter. Sprinkle with the cashews. Cut the lime into wedges.
- 5 Arrange the rissoles on the platter and serve with mayonnaise and lime wedges.

Jewel to bypass big Mile

Chris Vernuccio

Simon Miller has confirmed West Australian star Amelia's Jewel will stay home in the autumn before he considers a return to the east for a possible tilt at The Everest.

With the Group 1-winning mare due to return to work next week, Miller decided against another trip to Melbourne for the $4m All-Star Mile (March 16), opting to instead target the $5m The Quokka (1200m) in April.

The Perth trainer said the Melbourne autumn would come too soon for Amelia's Jewel, who is returning from an injury sustained in the Golden Eagle last November.

Amelia's Jewel needed stitches for a laceration to her near-fore fetlock that required her to remain under vet supervision before she was allowed to fly back to WA.

"She'll come back into work next week," Miller said. "Her action is really good. When I brought her back from Sydney I put her into work for a week to just have a look at her in action and her attitude was perfect, so she went out on a good note."

"I just thought the autumn was too close for the All-Star Mile."

Amelia's Jewel finished a close second to Overpass in last year's inaugural The Quokka. She'll again use the Group 3 Roma Cup (1100m) as her only lead-up run.

But Conners filly is no joke

Mitch Cohen

A promising filly named following a comical phone call with larrikin owner John Singleton could have gun trainer Clarry Conners dreaming of another Golden Slipper tilt after Friday.

Mrs Maree will make her highly anticipated debut for Conners' yard at Canterbury Park as she looks to lay down an autumn marker for the stable.

The daughter of Written Tycoon is raced by longtime client Singleton, with whom Conners combined to win the 2000 Golden Slipper with Belle Du Jour.

Their latest filly had remained nameless leading into her first trial before a phone call with Conners' wife Maree.

"Maree rang him up and said 'John, you still don't have a name for that filly' and he hung back and said 'I just named it Mrs Maree'," Conners said.

"When he rings me now, he asks me how 'Maree' is going and I tell him both are well."

Singleton famously shouted the bar when Belle Du Jour won an amazing Slipper.

It was Conners' fourth win in the race after he had first claimed the Slipper with two-year-old triple crown winner Tierce in 1991 before Burst completed the same feat for the stable a year later.

Prowl delivered Conners his third Slipper victory in 1998.

While the Canterbury Park meeting on Friday is a long way from the Slipper, Conners has been impressed with what he's seen from Mrs Maree in the lead-up to her debut.

The daughter of Written Tycoon has won both trials this preparation at Wyong and Rosehill Gardens before her debut in the Bivouac First Yearlings Maiden Handicap (1100m).

"She is a very kind filly and is very athletic looking," Conners said. "She is a dream to train. There are no tricks to her, she is just so easy to train and she shows a fair bit of potential."

Mrs Maree was snapped up for $500,000 at last year's Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale for Singleton.

Even before her first race start, Mrs Maree is a $51 chance for this year's Golden Slipper.

COFFEY'S BIG SHOT

From beach outing to $3m Magic Summer tilt for Harry

Ben Dorries

Victorian jockey Harry Coffey quips that he has ridden at the Gold Coast Magic Millions carnival before – but only on Surfers Paradise beach during the iconic barrier draw event.

Group 1-winning jockey Coffey will ride on the mega-rich day on Saturday week for the first time, getting a sighter on the Gold Coast track when he rides there this Saturday.

Coffey will partner Tony and Calvin McEvoy-trained two-year-old filly Arabian Summer on both Saturdays.

Following the blueprint set by the McEvoy champion Sunlight in 2018, Arabian Summer will be deployed on the seven-day back-up into the $3m 2YO Classic after racing this Saturday in the Gold Pearl over 1200m for 2YO fillies.

Arabian Summer is already safely in the 2YO Classic field, number two in the ballot order after scoring the Ballarat 2YO Classic on December 9 where she beat last Saturday's impressive Godolphin Sydney winner Parkour by 3½ lengths.

Coffey, who has never won a race in Queensland where he has only ever had seven previous rides, can't wait to get involved.

"I went up there once and did a guest speaking function and did the Magic Millions beach race once, but I've never ridden at Magic Millions," Coffey said.

"Racing this Saturday not only means the horse gets to have a look at the track but it also gives me a look at the track, so it will hold us both in good stead.

"I think this filly is bomb-proof and she can race well in any track conditions.

"You are always worried that two-year-old horses are going to go off the boil, but she has just really thrived and she loves doing her trackwork and loves racing.

"Parkour looks a nice horse, things probably didn't suit it at Ballarat like it suited ours, but we still won convincingly.

"I really do think Arabian Summer brings the right sort of form lines."

Coffey and his wife, Tayla, delivered their first child last year and their now seven-month-old boy Thomas has just celebrated his first Christmas.

The family has packed their bags for the Gold Coast where the jockey will have a steady focus on winning the $3m Classic with Arabian Summer.

He is also set to have other rides for the McEvoy's on Magic Millions day, including filly Sunset Dreaming in the $3m 3YO Guineas.

It is well known that Coffey lives with cystic fibrosis, having to defy the odds his entire career to prove he is capable of riding at the elite level.

In recent times, a new gene-modifying drug called Trikafta – which tricks Coffey's body into thinking it has a gene that he is missing – has changed the jockey's life for the better.

"It has made my quality of life so much better," Coffey said.

"My body doesn't have to work as hard and I don't have to visit hospital regularly to maintain where I am at.

"It has just made everything easier.

"My riding has got better, I have got more energy to do things.

"The drug works by tricking my body into thinking I am not as bad as what I am.

"My body is working at a lot better efficiency and it is now doing things that it is supposed to do."

Arabian Summer, a $220,000 buy as a yearling, races for a syndicate that includes her breeder, Sheikh Mohammed Bin Khalifa Al Maktoum.

The filly is currently on the fifth line of Gold Coast Magic Millions 2YO Classic betting at $11.

Mishani man has Straddy dream

Ben Dorries

Mishani man Mike Crooks is known for a racing empire of two-year-old gallopers, but the larrikin owner has revealed a bold new dream as the iconic Gold Coast Magic Millions 2YO Classic nears.

He wants to win Queensland's premier race, the Group 1 $3m Stradbroke Handicap, before he "carks it".

While he would still covet the rich Magic Millions with his band of young horses with the "Mishani" moniker, Crooks has a fresh racing blueprint in his mind.

He said he was keen for Les Ross – a master of training juvenile horses – to continue training his large band of two-year-olds from Crooks' private training facility.

But he is on the lookout for another horseman to train other, older horses he intends to buy with the famous Stradbroke Handicap in mind.

For Crooks, who made his fortune building swimming pools and who famously plucked Ross out of his pub where he was a karaoke singer, it would be an exciting new venture.

"My aim now before I cark it is to win the Magic Millions or the Straddy," Crooks said.

"At the end of the day, I have to start considering the Stradbroke.

"I need to buy some new stock as when I have QTIS horses and they are ready to rock and roll, we have to go for that early two-year-old prizemoney.

"People might think we over-race two-year-olds, but they are in and out very quickly and they honestly have three days off a week.

"Obviously I have got to look at how we can improve things and I would love to have some Stradbroke horses."

'Little fat boy' now fit and ready

Adam Sherry

Beautifully bred gelding Rakomelo has taken time to find peak fitness, but trainer Mick Attard says he is now spot on and ready to score his first win for the stable.

The former Godolphin gelding has had five starts for Attard since he was purchased on Inglis Digital in July last year starting with a 10th behind Jedibeel at Warwick Farm on October 2.

"He looks absolutely magnificent now. It's taken a few runs for him to look like a horse," Attard said.

"He was a little fat boy when he came into work after we bought him but he looks like a racehorse now."

He has finished just behind the placegetters in his four starts since with two fourth placings and two fifths but was taking improvement from each run according to Attard.

He said a drop back to 1000m in the Class 2 Heat of the Rising Star at Muswellbrook on Thursday would suit.

At his last run at Goulburn, he was exposed too far from home when fourth behind Galactic Angel on December 15.

"At Goulburn last start, he got up on heels and Alysha popped him out to get away from it at the 600m and he just took off but it was too far from home for him," he said. "Looking at his races in Melbourne, the more you hold him up, the better he gets to the line.

Rakomelo is now at peak fitness

"Dropping him back to the 1000m, there should be more speed on and gives him a chance to get home."

The son of Lonhro is a full brother dual to Listed winner Athiri and a half-brother to multiple Group 2 and 3 winners Savatiano and Vilana.

Like them, he is quite at home on wet ground.

In the preceding race, Attard saddles up another online purchase, four-year-old gelding Jamrock, who is coming off an improved 2½-length fifth behind Djapana at Gosford last Thursday.

Prior to that, he was safely held when fifth at Gosford first up and then seventh at Kembla at his second run back from a spell but things didn't go right.

"Just forget about his first-up run, he blundered at the start and the 1200m was too short for him but he got home all right the last 80m or so," Attard said.

No miracle, but trainer bullish about Medinah

Adam Sherry

Mudgee trainer Mack Griffith isn't underestimating the task facing Medinah in the last race at Muswellbrook, but is drawing confidence from leading rider Aaron Bullock's assessment of the gelding.

The four-year-old son of Pariah was formally trained in Victoria where he placed runner-up in three of his seven starts.

At his first run for Griffith, he finished 1½ lengths behind Invasive Dreams in fifth place over 1200m at Mudgee on December 1 before finishing a similar margin behind Erelle in second place over 1300m at Scone 18 days later.

"In his first time out for us, Aaron (Bullock) confirmed what we thought which is that he needs a bit of ground," Griffith said.

"When we bought him, most of his races had been over the shorter courses but the way he finished off we thought he might be able to get over a bit of a trip.

"He steps up to 1500m this week and Aaron sticks with him. Each time he has ridden him, he has come back with a great report."

Giddey stars in thriller

Josh Giddey has delivered his best performance of what has been a difficult season as the Oklahoma City Thunder secured an impressive win over Eastern Conference powerhouse Boston on Wednesday.

The 21-year-old drained four threes on his way to a season-high 23 points to go with eight rebounds and six assists.

It helped propel the Thunder to a 127-123 win over the Celtics in what lived up to the billing of a top of the table clash. The Celtics sit first in the East while the Thunder are second in the Western Conference.

The Thunder looked set for a comfortable win after extending their lead out to 18 points in the fourth quarter only for the Celtics to mount a late comeback, capitalising on a series of turnovers from Oklahoma to move to within two points with a minute to go.

The Thunder settled, however, and closed the game out thanks to 36 points from point guard Shai Gilgeous-Alexander and two clutch late free throws from Giddey.

It was their fifth straight win, a run that includes beating the current top teams in the East and West plus the reigning champions.

It continues a strong run of recent form for Giddey who equalled a career-high four three-pointers in a 20-point display against the Brooklyn Nets on New Year's Day.

The NBA world was impressed with what they saw from the Australian who has struggled this season and found his minutes reduced.

That has prompted speculation the Thunder, who hold a bounty of draft picks, could be motivated to make a trade before the deadline.

Wednesday's performance will go a long way to showing Giddey has an important role alongside Thunder trio Gilgeous-Alexander, Chet Holmgren and Jalen Williams.

Sylph VI skipper and owner Robert 'Bob' Williams, with his cat Oli, created a new record for the boat – the slowest trip in the Australian blue water classic. Picture: Adam Yip

Oli the cat has last meow

The two-hander Sylph VI – with Oli the cat aboard – was the 85th and last boat to finish the 2023 Sydney to Hobart to a hero's welcome while several big names have already confirmed they will miss the 2024 edition south.

Emotional skipper Bob Williams, crewmate Chris Warren and feline Oli the cat arrived in Hobart at 8.26am on Wednesday with a record for the boat – its slowest ever trip in the Australian blue water classic.

The agonisingly slow journey saw them arrive seven days, 19 hours, 26 minutes and 15 seconds after Sylph started the race at 1pm on Boxing Day.

Sylph's previous slowest Sydney to Hobart race was set in 1962 when she took seven days, 17 hours, 13 minutes and two seconds.

But there was one good bit of news for the team on the race tailender – they just managed to avoid finishing last in the PHS handicap race.

Sylph VI's slow progress saw her finish second last in the PHS handicap division, won by Will Vicars' Oron Drumfire, with David Hows' Silver Fern earning the dubious honour of finishing last in this division of the race.

"I think it's quite amazing the way people have taken to Oli," said Williams, a retired naval officer.

"He's just a part of my crew, wherever I sail."

Sylph VI's trip was five days slower than Christian Beck's LawConnect, which pipped Andoo Comanche by 51 seconds in the closest finish in decades for the line honours on December 28 at 8.03am.

Aussies' Asia Cup belief

Qatar 'a happy place'

Martin Gabor

It's been nine years since their famous Asian Cup win on home soil and Socceroos star Craig Goodwin "genuinely believes" the Aussies can go all the way at this year's tournament in Qatar that begins next week.

The Socceroos are one of the favourites to win the event on the back of their strong World Cup showing in 2022 and they'll be out to make an early statement when they face Bahrain in a warm-up match on Sunday morning.

The match will be a great chance for some of the players to get used to the hot conditions in the Middle East – something Goodwin has grown accustomed to at his Saudi club Al-Wehda where he scored a goal and set another up last week.

The Socceroos are 25th in the FIFA rankings, with Japan, Iran and South Korea the only Asian nations ahead of them.

It's why there's a quiet optimism they can go all the way having reached the quarter-finals in 2019 when they were bundled out by the UAE.

"I genuinely believe we have the squad to win the Asian Cup," Goodwin said.

"It's going to be hard and difficult but we have a good group with a good mentality. We have the potential to do something special here."

Australia opens its campaign against India next Saturday before taking on Syria and Uzbekistan in Group B.

It's easy to get caught up in the emotion of the Socceroos returning to Qatar, where they got past the group stage and were eventually knocked out by Lionel Messi and Argentina, who went on to win the World Cup, but Goodwin said it was a clean slate this time around.

"Qatar has been a happy place for myself and for us but it's about coming in with a different mindset and mentality. Coming in with more hunger to do more great things here," he said.

"None of us can get caught up in the thought process that we've done well here in the past and that it's going to come easy."

"We have aspirations to win the Asian Cup and to do that we have to have a ruthless mentality and to be focused on what's coming next."

"Although we're very happy with what we've done here in the past, that is in the past and we've got the here and now to focus on to try to bring the Asian Cup back to Australia."

Chidiac's desperate for more game time

Alex Chidiac doesn't normally get nervous but with so little time spent on a football field last year that was how she felt sitting on the bench in her Melbourne Victory kit.

The 24-year-old, who has donned the Matildas jersey 33 times since 2015, is just desperate to get back to doing the thing she loves – playing football.

Chidiac was named in the World Cup squad but given limited minutes off the bench in three matches.

After the World Cup she was relegated to the bench at the Mexican club at which she was on loan and dumped from the Matildas squad for the two-match friendly series against Canada last month.

She was eventually recalled to the Matildas following injuries to Sam Kerr and Holly McNamara.

The dynamic midfielder has re-signed with Melbourne Victory in the hope of increasing her game time and getting her mojo back.

Chidiac launched her professional football career in 2014 at age 15 with her home club Adelaide United in the then W-League. She played nine games and scored a goal.

Snoop out for Games scoop as NBC reporter

Rapper Snoop Dogg will be a special reporter for US broadcaster NBC at the Paris Olympics this year.

The network has announced he will reprise his star turn at the Tokyo Games that delighted viewers.

"I grew up watching the Olympics and am thrilled to see the incredible athletes bring their A-game to Paris," Snoop Dogg said.

NBC's vice president of Olympic production, Molly Solomon, said Snoop's commentating on dressage at the Tokyo Olympics had gone viral and "earned Snoop a job as our special correspondent in Paris".

"We don't know what the heck is going to happen every day but we know he will add his unique perspective to our re-imagined Olympic prime-time show," Solomon said.

In a video, the Drop It Like It's Hot rapper brings his signature style and humour to interviews with athletes.

Teen Littler takes aim at darts title

Teenage darts sensation Luke Littler has brushed aside eighth seed Rob Cross to advance into the final of the world championship.

Littler started nervously and lost the first set to Cross, the 2018 world champion, who averaged 108.7 to his younger counterpart's average of 103.2.

But the 16-year-old quickly found the form that has made him a household name in England. Though he averaged 98.7 to Cross' 108.3 in the second set, Littler nailed 75 per cent of his doubles while Cross had a sloppy conversion rate of just 29 per cent as the teen levelled the contest.

Despite Cross' best efforts – including an absurdly-high average of 114.5 in the fourth set – Littler gave his rival nothing as he won two consecutive sets to take a 3-1 lead.

Cross managed to snatch the fifth set despite averaging 91.7 to Littler's 98.2, but it only added fuel for the teenager to fire on the biggest stage.

Littler is to next meet the winner of the other semi final, which is between Scott Williams and world No.3 Luke Humphries, in the world championship final.

Osaka knocked out of Brisbane event

Returning star Naomi Osaka showed glimpses of her best but was knocked out of the Brisbane International in a big-serving clash by a fellow former world No.1 mounting her own comeback.

Former US Open and Wimbledon finalist Karolina Pliskova blasted past Osaka after a slow start to win 3-6-7-6 (7-4) 6-4 on Wednesday and reach the round of 16 after playing her first competitive match since September due to a wrist injury.

The victory keeps the Czech star's hopes of a Brisbane International three-peat alive after she won the previous two editions of the tournament in 2019 and 2020.

Osaka only gave up four unforced errors in a clinical first-set performance before Pliskova upped the ante on her serve, winning 24 of 26 points on her first serve to force a tie-break, which she won before breaking Osaka early in the final set.

Pliskova, 31, gave an unusually passionate celebration after claiming the second-set tie-break before she continued to serve out the game with all of her trademark power and aggression.

Nadal delivers a demolition job

Martin Gabor

Former world No.1 Rafael Nadal has put the rest of the men's tour on notice with an emphatic 7-5 6-1 win over Dominic Thiem in his first singles match in almost a year.

The Spanish maestro has been sidelined by a chronic hip injury since last year's Australian Open, but you wouldn't have known after he blasted the Austrian off the court at the Brisbane International.

The 37-year-old set the tone with a trademark forehand winner to take the opening point, with Nadal untroubled on serve as the pair traded holds before he claimed the all-important break in the 12th game to snatch the first set.

Spain's Rafael Nadal celebrates

It was a procession from there, with the 22-time grand slam winner breaking twice in the second set against the man he beat in consecutive French Open finals.

"Today is honestly an emotional and important day for me after probably one of the toughest years of my tennis career, without a doubt," Nadal said after the match.

"I had the chance to come back after a year and play in front of an amazing crowd and play, I think, at a very positive level."

"On the first day, it is something that makes us feel proud. Myself, all the team and family that have been there every single day during the past year."

"The first set was equal, with both of us serving well and more or less winning on serve."

"I was able to have that break at 6-5, so that makes the difference."

"Honestly, I know Dominic has gone through some hard times with injuries too, so I'm happy to see him on court and I wish him the very best for the season." Some of Nadal's groundstrokes made it feel like he'd gone back in time to when he was simply unbeatable, which makes you wonder how good he can be once he gets more match practice under his belt.

Nadal had only just made his competitive return in the doubles a couple of days earlier after a horrific run of injuries, and he'll next face Aussie Jason Kubler on Thursday.

In other results in Brisbane, Rinky Hijikata eliminated fellow Aussie Thanasi Kokkinakis in straight sets, while two-time Australian Open winner Victoria Azarenka also booked her spot in the round of 16.

ULTIMATE TEST LOOMS

Australian relishing the chance to go up against one of the game's all-time greats

Callum Dick

Jason Kubler was fighting a fierce first round battle against Aslan Karatsev on Show Court 1 when the roar came from inside Pat Rafter Arena.

He and Karatsev were forced to briefly pause their second set as the crowd next door erupted with delight, signalling Rafael Nadal's victory over Dominic Thiem.

Both men immediately knew what it meant. The winner would be facing one of the greatest of all time in the next round.

Suddenly the stakes were even higher.

"I think we both definitely knew that Rafa had won and that we were (going to play) Rafa - it was very obvious who won," Kubler said ahead of his Thursday night meeting with the 22-time Grand Slam champion.

"We had to stop play a couple of times because of it, in a couple of big moments in our match because the crowd was cheering for Rafa."

Kubler would go on to lose the second set in a close tie-breaker, however his Russian opponent went down with what looked to be a serious knee injury and was forced to retire from the match.

The stage was then set: Kubler versus Nadal. A Brisbane International second round clash set to divide the tennis diehards.

In Kubler they have the local hope, the Brisbane boy who trained on Pat Rafter Arena for more than a decade.

Then there is Nadal, the two-time Australian Open champion and arguably the most popular player in the sport's history, who could be playing Down Under for the final time this year.

Kubler heard the cheers. The "Rafa Rafa Rafa, Oi Oi Oi".

He will command serious home crowd support on Thursday night. But there will undoubtedly be pro-Nadal pockets within Pat Rafter Arena.

"To be honest if they cheer for him or me it's going to be special regardless," Kubler said.

"However the match or the crowd happens to be, the occasion is going to be special to me ... getting to play Rafa on my home court, so regardless of all the other outside stuff just that alone is special."

"I'm 30 now so any sort of big match against one of the legends of the sport is pretty cool."

"There's definitely going to be some nerves that's for sure, because of how great a player he is, but at the same time I honestly believe I have nothing to lose. I can go out there and lose 6-1, 6-1 and not many people are going to bat an eye about it."

"I'm just going to go out and enjoy it. I trained here for 10 years of my life so it's a pretty special moment to play one of the biggest names in our sport on this court."

"Hopefully lots of people can make the occasion even more special. I'm sure it's something I'll remember for the rest of my life."

On the comeback trail from a seventh serious knee injury, Kubler is taking it one match at a time as he prepares for the Australian Open. There is perhaps no sterner fitness test in world tennis than against Nadal.

He enters with no expectations on his shoulders - and that's the way he likes it.

If there was ever a time to strike down one of the winningest players in tennis history, Thursday night in front of a sold out Pat Rafter Arena would be it.

"If I won the match it would definitely be the biggest occasion," Kubler said.

"I don't think it would be much bigger than that, beating one of the best players ever."

Pakistan stages rally

Rizwan, Salman dig in after Aussies dominate early

Mohammad Rizwan and Agha Salman counter-attacked to help Pakistan battle back from a rocky start on the opening day of the third Test against Australia in Sydney.

After being reduced to 96 for five soon after lunch, Rizwan and Salman took on the Australian bowling with a pulsating 94-run stand before Rizwan fell just before tea for 88.

At the interval, Pakistan was 199 for six with Salman on 36 and Sajid Khan seven. The tourists ended up all out for 313. In reply, the hosts finished 0/6.

Rizwan, who had been dropped for the first Test, blasted two sixes and 10 fours off 103 balls before he fell to a legside trap set by Pat Cummins.

Rizwan top-edged a pull shot for Josh Hazlewood to take the catch at fine leg after posting the highest individual score by a Pakistan batsman of the series.

Cummins made the breakthrough as he has done often throughout the series, taking his third wicket of the innings.

Pakistan made a disastrous start after winning the toss, losing four wickets in the opening session and skipper Shan Masood shortly after lunch for 35.

It was a rousing morning session for the Australians, who are looking to send off 37-year-old opening batsman David Warner as a winner in his home city in his 112th and final Test match.

Openers Abdullah Shafique and debutant Saim Ayub were dismissed inside the first two overs.

The out-of-form Shafique fell to the second ball of Mitchell Starc's opening over, needlessly playing a loose drive and nicking a catch to Steve Smith at second slip for a duck.

Ayub, brought in for Imam-ul-Haq to make his Test debut, only lasted two balls before he fell to a Hazlewood out-swinger in the next over, snapped up behind by Alex Carey.

Pakistan lurched to four for two and for a time looked to be consolidating with Babar Azam playing three glorious cover drives to the ropes before he was out on first-hour drinks for 26.

Cummins appealed vociferously for lbw but was turned down by the umpire, only to seek a review and get the verdict he sought, leaving the tourists tottering at 39 for three.

nasty blow on the collarbone from a Cummins lifter and in the Australian skipper's next over he prodded a catch behind to Carey for five, leaving his side further in the mire at 47 for four. Masood had a big moment on 32 in the second over after lunch when he was caught by Smith at second slip but it was ruled a no-ball from bowler Mitchell Marsh.

Marsh got the last laugh two overs later when Masood, on 35, again edged the medium-pacer to Smith. Australia clinched the three-match series with a tense 79-run win in the second Test in Melbourne over Christmas.

Chloe Murphy coming in to bowl for Norths Red

Country title goal for Chloe

Patrick Woods

Townsville cricketer Chloe Murphy is gearing up for her second Australian Country Cricket Championships with the Queensland Brolgas, who will play their first game on Thursday.

Murphy has been a standout of the past three seasons of Townsville's women's league and again got the call-up to represent the state's country side alongside Townsville players Grace Abdy and Courtney Hewitt.

Murphy said she was honoured to be back in the fold for the representative team.

"Last year was my first one, it was always good fun. We had a good team, a good group of girls and a great coach and manager," Murphy said.

"This year has been really, really good. We all get along and it's a great group to be involved with."

"It's always a good challenge against every side (at the Country Championships) so it'll be good to see how we go against everyone."

Murphy said last year's tournament had helped her improve her game a lot and encouraged first-timer Hewitt to grab the chance for this event to do the same for her.

"It was a really good experience competing at a higher level, and getting that experience to go away with them," Murphy said.

"My advice to Courtney is just to back herself, have fun and go for it."

The Brolgas face the ACT from 9am on Thursday playing at Townson Oval in Newcastle.

Brahmans power to victory

Patrick Woods

The Queensland Country Brahmans comfortably chased down South Australia Country with a four-wicket victory during the opening day at the Australia Country Cricket Championships in Newcastle on Wednesday.

South Australia was under pressure early but Hamish Case anchored his side with 76 off 90 balls before he was dispatched by Aidan Watterson.

SA finished with 8/219 after 50 overs, setting an achievable target for Queensland.

Brahmans opener and Far North Queensland star batsman Matthew Wilkins set the tone for the chase with a cool 69 off 98 before skipper Sam Lowry came in and sped up the pace.

A Lowry six banged off the roof of the stands in the 24th over – one of his seven boundaries of the afternoon – soon after the Queensland Country captain came in and put his team in the driver's seat with a quick 73 off 82 balls.

Lowry brought up his half century with a sweep that rolled to the boundary for four runs and soon after Jake

Roach joined him in the middle. Townsville Western Suburbs all-rounder Lachlan Ford came in late in the game and partnered Lowry for the final runs of the game – another Lowry four – as Queensland Country triumphed.

Ford hit seven runs off eight balls and carried his fantastic bowling form into the clash, taking two wickets for 28 runs.

North Queensland's rising star Travis Busch claimed the first wicket of the match, while Jake Roach cleaned up South Australia's lower order with two scalps in three overs.

Queensland Country takes on Victoria Country on Thursday from 9am AEST.

Netball's next gen given voice

Patrick Woods

Townsville City Netball Association has announced the implementation of a Youth Advisory Group (YAG) following the success of its Netball Queensland counterpart.

The statewide YAG has been running for two years, allowing the next generation of players and sports administrators to discuss their views and provide feedback to Netball Queensland management.

Townsville junior Majella Jerome, who co-chaired Netball Queensland's advisory group in 2023, will lead the new local YAG and has been working closely with TCNAI to implement the initiative.

TCNAI operations manager Natalie Parsloe said: "It's an opportunity for our young players and juniors to put their opinions across and throw their ideas around as well in a constructive collective environment."

"It's an excellent initiative that Netball Queensland have started and we're really excited to see what comes of it."

"Majella is in the process of planning every month, and we'll aim to have a guest speaker every month to talk to those who are on the group. She's been very organised and she's excited to be leading it."

Townsville's YAG will provide a similar experience to garner youth sentiment and their experiences participating in netball.

The inaugural local group will meet once a month online under the guidance and support of Jerome.

Expressions of interest are welcome from all facets of the netball community – players, umpires and volunteers aged between 13 and 24.

Expressions of interest close on Sunday, January 14.

Penrith 'respect' Jarome's big shift

The Panthers have responded to Jarome Luai's decision to join Wests Tigers from 2025 on a five-year deal, with the three-time defending premiers expressing their "disappointment" but ultimately "respecting Jarome's choice" as salary cap pressures force another star out of the club.

Luai announced on Wednesday that he was heading to the Tigers next year to link up with childhood hero Benji Marshall, who has had his biggest win as a coach as the club looks to bounce back from consecutive wooden spoons.

Leaving his hometown club, where he's won three titles and played alongside his best mates, was a brutal decision for Luai, but the chance to prove himself as the head chef was an opportunity he couldn't turn down.

Penrith wanted to keep him but couldn't match the Tigers' offer, with Luai joining other big names Matt Burton, Villame Kikau, Api Koroisau and Stephen Crichton who have all moved on.

"As publicly stated previously, the club believes that as a three-time premiership player and international representative, Jarome has earned the right to explore the open market and although the club is disappointed by the outcome, it respects Jarome's choice," the Panthers posted.

Luai will return to training on Thursday but will remain sidelined as he recovers from shoulder surgery. It's unclear whether he'll be available for the trip to the UK for the World Club Challenge.

But he and the Panthers have stressed they are fully committed to working together to achieve an unprecedented fourth straight title. "We acknowledge that the situation is compounded by salary cap capacity due to the club's recent success," Panthers Rugby League chief executive Matt Cameron said.

Five-eighth quits Panthers to join boyhood hero

Penrith playmaker Jarome Luai's hugely successful partnership with Nathan Cleary (inset top) is drawing to a close after Wests Tigers coach Benji Marshall (inset bottom) lured Luai to the wooden spooners from 2025 on a massive five-year deal. Pictures: NRL Images

Top to bottom for Luai

Martin Gabor

Jarome Luai is hoping to win "five rings" at the Wests Tigers after signing a five-year deal worth a reported $6m.

The Panthers five-eighth has won three premierships in a row but will head to a team next year that has won the past two wooden spoons, which is one of the reasons he described it as the "toughest decision of my career and life".

Luai's announcement came after months of speculation as to where he would end up. Along with the Panthers and Bulldogs, his manager said on Wednesday several clubs had been interested in signing him.

Money was obviously a motivating factor for the 26-year-old, who has three children and got engaged to be married last week, but a chance to work with Tigers coach Benji Marshall was too good to ignore given the Kiwis star has been his idol since he dazzled the crowd with a stunning play in the 2005 decider.

"The obvious reason was that it was a great opportunity to provide for my family but also to create something for myself," Luai said. "I've had a great connection with Benji and we spoke about the future and what he sees in me."

"My first game of rugby league was that grand final."

"I was on a camping trip with my family and I got to see him do his thing out there and that inspired me."

"I've always been a big fan of Benji and the way that he holds himself. I got the opportunity to chuck the boots on with him in the Maori camp and I actually got to room with him which was pretty cool."

Signing Luai could be the turning point for a club that's been starved of success, with the Tigers last making the finals in 2011.

"We are super excited to announce the signing of Jarome for the 2025 season on a five-year deal," Marshall said.

"His experience as a genuine premiership-winning playmaker will be great for us and the future of our club. We love the way Jarome plays his footy and even better, he is a great person."

Luai now has the chance to be the chief playmaker after playing his entire career alongside champion halfback Nathan Cleary.

Panthers coach Ivan Cleary questioned whether Luai could handle that role when asked about it last year, although he showed he's more than capable after taking Samoa to the 2021 World Cup final.

"He wasn't lying," Luai said, confirming he's fully committed to helping Penrith win a fourth title. "At the end of the day, he was right because I haven't proven it on the biggest stage yet. That's what I want to prove to myself."

Luai used Wednesday's press conference to officially tell the Bulldogs they'd missed out, which he said had hurt because of his strong links to coach Cameron Ciraldo and best friend Stephen Crichton, who left Penrith to join the Bulldogs. "I've got a lot of brothers over there already and Ciraldo's like my second dad, so that was pretty tough to turn that away and walk this path alone and face this new challenge," Luai said.

Huntington tells of dark times with ACL injury curse

Erin Smith

Pain, surgeries, gruelling rehab process and extreme strain on your mental health – AFLW player Isabel Huntington says the impact of an ACL rupture doesn't get any less after the second or third time.

Huntington, 24, has torn her ACL three times in the space of six years. She is part of a growing club of elite women athletes who have had triple ACL injuries.

Joining the club this year alongside the AFLW player is Matildas fringe player Holly McNamara – who tore her ACL for the third time playing in the A-Leagues just days after being called into the national squad.

Sydney FC midfielder Taylor Ray is back in the A-Leagues this season after her third rupture.

Huntington said thoughts of giving up the game started to creep into her head during her second rehab stint and grew louder during her most recent injury. "There are certainly periods where you think you're not going to be able to get back or at the very least get back to the level that you were playing at, it's a pretty dark and lonely time throughout those periods," she said.

"Particularly the third one, not as many people have come back from three successfully so you have less and less inspiration in terms of athletes that have successfully done it."

"So there were doubts. But it's a pretty proud moment when you get to run out there again, with your fingers crossed it will be sweet from here on out."

Leading knee surgeon Dr Chris Vertullo said research had proven the female anatomy made women five to eight times more likely to suffer an ACL injury than men. "Studies take time but I think we need to invest hard in terms of research and getting to the bottom of it and finding some answers," Huntington said.

The Bulldogs turned Greater Western Sydney player tore her ACL for the first time when she was 17-years-old.

"My first one was in 2016, then I got back and in my second game back I did my other knee," Huntington said.

"It was a few years between my second and my third, which I did (January 2022)."

She needed an extended time off to recover from the third tear – taking 20 months, instead of the usual 10-12 months.

Huntington made her triumphant return to the field in September, after delaying several times for a niggle and her confidence to return.
